HOBBYIST HARLAN . . . days are too short.

One-Man Carving Show Stalled By Other Hobbies

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — F. D. (Red) Harlan talks in one breath of a possible one-man carving show, then admits in the next that he may never get around to it.

In his so-called retirement, the seasoned civil engineer competes too much with himself as (1) a chaser of antiques generale, (2) a bottle digger in "most any old dump," and (3) a guitarist whose sole audience for hours on end is himself.

In between, he simply enjoys life like every 66-year-oldster oughta.

"I'm at something 10 to 12 hours a day, most every day," said the full-time hobbyist. "But winters are my carving time and they just aren't long enough to accomplish all I want."

Meticulous

Then too, he's slowed by a meticulousness which demands up to 300 hours on a single small chest. Two of these, each mirroring the minute details of Oriental finery, are among his proudest works.

But native walnut, cedar and sugar pine also have emerged as African figures and contemporary plaques. Even worm-chewed fence posts and telephone poles have taken new shape through his tools and talent. So far he has refused to sell any of the creations.

Bottles? Harlan estimates a collection of 2,600, most of them salvaged from nearby dumps. Amber, clear and green are all his "specialties," though any cobalt blues end up in his wife's prize assortment.

One Of The Best

"We've been told Jessie has one of the best sets of blues anyplace around," said her husband.

Mrs. Harlan, who made an amazing comeback from a nearly fatal heart attack of 16 years ago, is herself a classic in interests. After rearing four children she turned to poetry, antiques and all sorts of fancy work. Her colorful afghans compare in time and quality with her husband's carvings.

Harlan took up carving only four years ago, incidentally, shortly after one of his last major engineering assignments. He was resident engineer on a Nebraska ring of Atlas missile complexes.

Came In Conestoga

Born in Brownville, the Nebraskan classifies as one of the state's "youngest pioneers." In 1904 his parents brought him to Fairbury, his home ever since, by Conestoga wagon.

"Just wish I had that old wagon now," he quipped. "It'd be worth a fortune in bottles!"

$2 MILLION . . .

State Shifts Inheritance Tax Funds

The transfer of $2 million from the state's $3.9 million inheritance tax fund into the state general fund was reported Wednesday by the state tax commissioner's office.

E. R. Hermes, assistant commissioner, said another $750,000 is projected for transfer during the remainder of the biennium.

It was the first use of inheritance tax money for general state expenditures since November 1964, when $1.2 million was transferred by the State Board of Equalization in shaving the state property tax levy that year.

No transfer was made during the past biennium although the tax commissioner had contemplated such action in estimating miscellaneous revenues.

Hermes said it is anticipated $250,000 will be transferred next April and another $250,000 next October and in April 1971 in periodic reviews of the fund's balance by the tax commissioner's staff.

Hermes estimated the remaining $1.9 million balance will remain static because contemplated transfers will be offset by new tax money coming in from estates.

Growth of the inheritance tax fund since 1964 has averaged more than $750,000 annually.

State Sales Tax Boosted To 2½%

The State Board of Equalization Wednesday boosted the state sales tax to 2½% from 2%, effective Jan. 1. The individual income tax rate was hiked to 13% from 10%, and the corporate income tax rate was increased to 2.6% from 2%.

Carpenter Condemns 'Rush' To Fix 1970 State Tax Rates

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Terry Carpenter Wednesday condemned Gov. Norbert Tiemann and other members of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment for "rushing" to fix 1970 tax rates six weeks before the deadline established by law.

Tiemann, the Scottsbluff lawmaker said, was practicing "political stealth . . . in a rush to attempt to discredit the Legislature."

Had the board waited until the Nov. 15 deadline fixed by the Legislature, Carpenter said, it could have based its revenue projections and growth estimates on "more accurate information" derived from changing economic conditions.

'Might Have Been'

Furthermore, he suggested, the board might have been able to reduce the tax rates as a result of court action on capital construction appropriations bills.

"The Supreme Court may be able to decide those budgetary questions by that time," Carpenter said. "But the board was unwilling to wait. It would be ridiculous if we are raising more taxes than are necessary."

(Tiemann told newsmen last week that the board can revise the rates if court action reduces revenue needs.)

Center Of Lawsuit

Two capital construction budget bills, with total new appropriations approaching $25 million, will be the central subject of a lawsuit which the Legislature has requested Attorney General Clarence Meyer to initiate in order to test legislative-executive appropriations powers.

At stake in the suit is capital construction funding which is more than $10 million above the governor's budget recommendations, including $7 million in projects vetoed by Tiemann.

Court decisions presumably could reduce revenue needs for the biennium by $10 million or more if all appropriations above the governor's recommendations which did not receive 33 votes on final reading are nullified.

The board's revenue and tax rate projections include funding of all those projects.

"Establishing accurate rates is a lot more important than trying to decide who gets blamed for what," Carpenter insisted.

"As for Tiemann, he's entitled to all the blame because there's no reason to raise more than we need."

'Reduced Burden'

The governor could have "reduced the burden on taxpayers at all levels" if he had vetoed a bill removing the legal interest rate ceilings on governmental subdivision bonds, Carpenter declared.

"That's about the same as an appropriation of money, only multiplied 10 times," the senator said. "That's going to cost the taxpayer a whole lot more."

Carpenter attempted to kill the bill, LB1437, before its final reading test. It passed on a 27-11 count.

Three Reject Moratorium

. . . HAWKS SOUND OFF

Washington (AP) — Republican leaders, renewing appeals for national unity on Vietnam, quoted President Nixon Wednesday as reiterating he refuses to be "the first president to preside over an American defeat."

The Senate's debate on Vietnam escalated, however, with new calls for withdrawal, countered by warnings from Republican Sens. John G. Tower of Texas and Barry Goldwater of Arizona that new military moves should be undertaken to win the war.

Tower said that unless the North Vietnamese make new moves for peace within the next few days the United States should consider resuming the bombing of North Vietnam halted 11 months ago by the Johnson administration as it sought to get the Paris peace talks rolling.

Expressing belief a military victory is possible, Goldwater said. "It is high time we told the people in Paris to fish or cut bait."

Three Democrats, Sens. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Frank Church of Idaho, rejected GOP leader Hugh Scott's call for a 60-day moratorium on criticism of Nixon's efforts.

Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, broke nine months of virtual silence on the war. "The time has come now when, with the best of spirits, we should try to develop this issue," he said.

Needs To Be 'Convinced'

Fullbright said he would refuse to heed Scott's moratorium plea "until I become convinced this administration has taken the decision to extricate us from this war."

Kennedy told reporters he hopes other senators will join those who have spoken up for prompt action, saying, "Rather than being disunified, I think it helps to build a unity of purpose."

Scott reported that Nixon restated his determination to prevent U.S. defeat to a group of about 10 Republican senators at the White House Tuesday night. He said the President described his peace proposals of last May 14 as the fairest ever offered by any nation "in an internal war of this sort."

But Fulbright said that by ending the war "we're not admitting a defeat. We're not bugging out. We're liquidating a tragic mistake. I object to the policy that we should all keep quiet and hope for the best."

He noted that Nixon has held office for nine months, "the normal period of gestation for humans to bring forth their issue," and added: "Rather than a moratorium on criticism, which kills no one, we who criticize continuation of the war seek instead a moratorium on killing.

"I do not believe there is any justification for another American to die in that unhappy land," Fulbright said.

Tower, a close adviser of Nixon in last year's presidential campaign, said he had not discussed his proposal with the President.

"It becomes increasingly apparent," he told a news conference and the Senate, "that the intensification of military pressure on our enemies is the only thing that will bring them to terms."

Wisconsin Legislators Jail March Leader

Madison (AP) — Angry legislators voted a contempt citation and jail sentence Wednesday night against the Rev. James E. Groppi, leader of three days of welfare demonstrations that have kept the Wisconsin capitol in turmoil.

The civil rights leader had been arrested on a Dane County warrant and was being held in lieu of bond when the assembly voted 71-24 to order him jailed.

Legislators said they believe it was the first use of the 100-year-old contempt statute. It calls for incarceration to the end of the legislative session or for six months, whichever is shortest.

Groppi had been arrested earlier on other charges at a church where he had gone "to ask God for sanctuary."

Also taken into custody was Ralph Chase, a Groppi lieutenant and coordinator of the welfare recipients' march which covered 90 miles from Milwaukee.

Groppi and Chase were charged with disorderly conduct in Monday's takeover of the assembly chambers in the capitol. Demonstrators occupied the chamber for 11 hours before officers ejected them.

Milwaukee County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr. also directed that Groppi be picked up and brought before him for a hearing on probation violation.

The priest was convicted Feb. 12, 1968, of resisting arrest in a Milwaukee open housing demonstration. He has been on probation subject to revocation if arrested and convicted again for civil disorder, civil disobedience "or any other crime whatsoever."

The capitol remained cordoned off by guardsmen and riot-equipped police for a third day after Groppi called upon University of Wisconsin students to join welfare protesters in a new attempt to enter the capitol.

"They can take me back," Groppi told newsmen. "I'm happy to go to jail. I consider going to jail a holy act. I am going to take sanctuary. I am going to ask God for sanctuary. He got me into this mess."

Griffin, Brooke Ask Nixon To Take Back Haynsworth

Washington (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin, the No. 2 Republican in the Senate, reportedly has suggested to President Nixon that the Supreme Court appointment of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth be withdrawn.

A spokesman for the Michigan senator Wednesday night refused, however, to confirm or deny the report that came from seperal congressional sources.

The Griffin development came on the heels of a public call by another Republican senator, Edward W. Brooke, of Massachusetts that Nixon call back the nomination or face an "embarrassingly" close vote and possibly even defeat.

There was no immediate comment from the White House on any possible withdrawal. Nixon, however, said at his news conference last week he had no intention of pulling back his nomination of Haynsworth, a judge on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Griffin, the newly selected assistant Senate minority leader, reportedly made his withdrawal suggestion Tuesday during Nixon's meeting with the Republican congerssional leadership.

Brooke made his plea to Nixon in a letter released shortly after the Senate Judiciary Committee, in what one member described as a heated session, put off a vote for at least a week.

He told Nixon that mounting sentiment among both Democrats and Republicans pointed to the possibility of an "embarrassingly" close vote if not actual rejection.

It was understood that Brooke acted without consulting Republican Senate leaders and that he hoped to jar loose further demands for withdrawal of the nomination from his GOP colleagues.

Brooke, the only Negro in the Senate, told the President he had acted after his own review of Haynsworth's business dealings and Federal Court decisions in civil rights cases.

Air Assault Continues On Suez Canal Targets

©The New York Times

Jerusalem — The sustained Israeli aerial assault against the Egyptian front line continued Wednesday with day and night raids across the Suez Canal.

The night attack was the second in three days. Israeli jets are understood to be preventing the Egyptians from repairing the damage reported during the day.

Wednesday afternoon the jets, probably American-made Skyhawks, returned to bomb and strafe what a communique said were "military targets in the Suez Canal area."

Wednesday's attacks brought to 20 the number of air raids against Egyptian artillery and air defense installations in the last three weeks.

The air war began on a sustained level with Israel's amphibious assault against Egyptian installations on the Suez Gulf coast on Sept. 9. An armored column spent 10 hours on Egyptian soil destroying everything along a 50-mile stretch of coast before returning.

Israeli officials are saying now that the sustained offensive has cut Egyptian artillery attacks across the canal.

Most of the firing across the canal now consists of mortar attacks, about 30 a day, and small arms fire. Officials have indicated that the daily air strikes will continue as long as the Egyptian shooting continues.

7 Green Berets Deny There Was A Killing

World News

Travis Air Force Base, Calif. (AP) — Freed of charges that they murdered an alleged Vietnamese double agent, seven members of the Army's Special Forces came back to the United States Wednesday with denial that there even had been a killing.

Just before they scattered on 30-day leaves, Col. Robert B. Rheault was asked if he had been in charge of executing the Vietnamese, Thai Khac Chuyen.

He replied to newsmen: "There has not been any substantiation that such an individual ever existed."

Rheault, 43, former commander of all Green Berets in Vietnam, said, "That is correct," when asked if he denied there had been a slaying.

Didn't Know Him

Asked if he knew "the alleged dead man," he replied, "No."

The other six posed with the colonel for pictures, but let him do the talking.

The eighth accused Green Beret, Sgt. 1.C. Alvin L. Smith of Naples, Fla., against whom charges also were dismissed Monday, took a later flight home.

Henry B. Rothblatt, New York attorney for two of the men, met the seven and told newsmen it was Smith who had gone to top Army authorities with the story of the alleged killing.

The Army said Smith's paper processing was delayed and this was why he took a later flight.

"Smith was afraid the others were going to knock him off," Rothblatt said.

Dismissed By Resor

The charges against all eight were dismissed on orders of Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor, who said the Central Intelligence Agency would not permit its people to testify.

In Washington Wednesday, presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said President Nixon had approved the CIA decision and the Army made its dismissal move after being informed of the Nixon-approved CIA decision.

Ziegler said no one at the White House "exerted persuasion" on the CIA or the Army while the matter was under consideration.

At his brief news conference soon after their jet liner landed here at 4:30 a.m., Rheault was asked if he thought "the Vietnamese who was killed was a close political ally of President Thieu" and "do you think this might have resulted in the case being brought against you?"

No Link With Thieu

"There was no conclusive evidence that the individual was ever killed," Rheault answered, "and there is certainly no indication anywhere that the alleged victim was connected with President Thieu in any way."

The colonel observed that "war is a nasty business, with a lot of high-minded objectives, like freedom and fighting the aggressor to justify killing people," and concluded this incident "would better be forgotten . . . so long as people remember that we were exonerated."

Those who came home with Rheault were Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, of Bloomfield, N.J.; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, of Jefferson, S.C.; Maj. David Crew, 33, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, of Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Budge E. Williams, 27, of Athens, Ga., and CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, 26, of New York.

Marasco Replies

Later, Marasco talked with newsmen at Newark, N.J., Airport.

He was asked to comment on Army allegations that he shot the alleged double agent.

"Ridiculous," he responded. He refused to elaborate.

"It's great to be home," Marasco said.

Big Thrust Expected In Paddy Land

Saigon (AP) — South Vietnamese troops battled through the rich paddy land of the Mekong Delta where allied intelligence expects the enemy command to make its next major thrust, a military spokesman said Wednesday.

The government troops, aided by artillery and air strikes, lost six men killed and 29 wounded in four battles Tuesday that ranged 52 to 120 miles south of Saigon.

Intelligence informants reported two North Vietnamese regiments, totaling 5,000 regulars, were sent into the delta during July and August, presumably to take advantage of a slack created by the departure of 10,000 U.S. troops.

The 10,000 American soldiers were among the 25,000 men withdrawn under President Nixon's initial reduction order. They comprised two brigades of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division, the only American division operating in the delta.

It was the first time that North Vietnamese regulars had been sent into the delta from their normal base camps north and northwest of Saigon.

In the delta fighting, the biggest battle was waged by South Vietnamese 7th Division troops who reported killing 34 enemy soldiers and capturing three in a clash 50 miles southwest of Saigon. Government losses were reported as six killed and 24 wounded.

Claim 20 Reds Killed

Other 7th Division units claimed killing 20 and capturing two enemy in a series of contacts farther to the west while suffering only two wounded.

Three South Vietnamese marines were wounded when they ambushed a Viet Cong unit 120 miles southwest of Saigon and killed eight of the enemy.

20th Year Marked; Peking Heads Well

Tokyo (AP) — Communist China marked its 20th anniversary Wednesday with pomp and pageantry — but no new pronouncements.

The nation's top leaders, including Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his officially designated heir, Lin Piao, stood on the red walls overlooking the Square of Heavenly Peace as a crowd of perhaps half a million paraded through the vast plaza. The square is part of the Forbidden City, site of the nation's seat of government.

A Japanese correspondent in Peking reported that Mao was "looking fit and grinning broadly." American correspondents are barred from Peking. Peking Radio said the 75-year-old leader smiled, waved and shook the hands of dignitaries as the marchers below turned the square into "a sea of red flags."

Rumored Ill

Mao and Lin had been rumored in recent weeks to be seriously ill. Such reports often have cropped up when Mao has been out of the public eye, and the anniversary celebration marked his first appearance since last May.

Correspondent Kimihiko Iwasaki of Japan's Kyodo News Service said students and intellectuals marched at the rear, and some of them carried placards saying, "Let a hundred flowers bloom, let a hundred birds sing." Such slogans had not been seen since 1956, when the Hundred Flowers movement led to a crackdown on intellectuals who interpreted the movement to mean they could say anything they wished.

The official New China News Agency said more than 100,000 people in the square formed the characters: "Long Live Chairman Mao." At the sides of the formation were two huge placards. One said, "United to win still greater victories."

Tone Established

The other set the tone for key anniversary speeches: "People of the world, unite and oppose the war of aggression launched by any imperialism or social-imperialism, especially one in which atom bombs are used as weapons. If such a war breaks out, the people of the world should use revolutionary war to eliminate the war of aggression, and preparations should be made right now."

Lin, 62, delivered the keynote address, a nine-minute appeal for unity, loyalty to Mao and continuing struggle against "American imperialism and the Soviet Union's social-imperialism."

As usual, Mao did not address the crowd, but the broadcast said he was "in very good health" and moved about during the 2½-hour ceremony, chatting with other leaders standing with him atop the gate to the square.

Russia Explodes N-Device: It's Second Test This Week

Washington (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission reported recording low to intermediate "seismic signals" in the Soviet Union's nuclear test area Wednesday, the second such blast reported this week.

The first one, which was announced Sunday, took place on Friday south of Volgograd, formerly Stalingrad. The one on Wednesday was in another area, the Semipalatinsk region of Siberia.

The low-intermediate range means both blasts had the explosive force equivalent to that of 20,000 to 200,000 tons of TNT.

The AEC would not say the tests were underground or that nuclear weapons were involved. But in contrast to atmospheric tests which are more easily detected and identified underground testing is more difficult to pin down as such.

The nuclear test-ban treaty of 1963 prohibited aerial weapons testing.

Communist China, which did not sign the treaty, has set off nine tests reported by the AEC in the air, the latest being recorded Monday. The AEC also announced on Sunday seismic signals recorded on Sept. 22 and the wording indicated the AEC suspects it may have been the first Chinese underground blast.

Sobbing Woman Threatens To Kill Self, Children

Saigon (AP) — The tearful widow of the Vietnamese agent reputedly slain by U.S. Green Berets, Thai Khac Chuyen, went to the U.S. Embassy Wednesday and threatened to kill herself and her children unless she receives compensation and an explanation of his death.

The woman, 29-year-old Pham Kim Lien, was still sobbing when she talked with newsmen later on the embassy grounds.

"My husband came South looking for freedom and democracy and the help of the Americans," she said. "The Americans killed him and won't take the responsibility.

"They must either take the responsibility for his death or my death."

Nursing Home Group Told Outside Ties Best Medicine

Nebraska News

Omaha — There is no better medicine for the elderly nursing home patient than the maintenance of outside ties, the first vice president of the American Nursing Home Association said here Wednesday.

David R. Mosher of St. Petersburg, Fla., was in Omaha to address the annual convention of the Nebraska Nursing Home Association.

"The ANHA recommends that residents be encouraged to maintain their outside ties with relatives, their churches and social groups," Mosher said.

"The kind of life a person brings into the home is the kind of life he will follow there," he continued. "We always try to cultivate their previous interests through craft programs and activities."

Some Neglected

He admitted, however, that relatives sometimes neglect patients placed in the care of a nursing home, while others are prevented from frequent visitation by traveling distance.

"The latter is particularly true in Florida, where we get many retirees whose families live in the North," said Mosher.

"But here in the Midwest, non-urban area, there is little of this in-migration of the elderly, and I think families tend to maintain a higher degree of responsibility for their relatives."

He said volunteer programs that bring church and youth groups and other individuals into the homes are being actively promoted through ANHA.

Interest Needed

"During the two weeks before Christmas, we have to keep a log of what group is coming to visit when," he said. "It is unfortunate that we don't have this kind of interest the year around."

The annual convention, which closes with a business session Thursday, drew some 200 representatives, doubling the attendance of the 1968 meeting.

The president of the Missouri Nursing Home Association, Sister Michael of St. Louis, urged the Nebraska organization to become more involved politically.

"We must become involved in health care legislation," she said, "because laws pertaining to health care for the elderly must come from us."

"The ANHA has fought for higher standards of care, and the state and federal governments must provide funds to cover the costs of delivering such care."

UNO Student Center Mass Violated State Law—Dean

Omaha (AP) — The dean of students at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, Donald J. Pflaster, says UNO officials violated state law when they allowed a recognized Catholic student group to hold religious services at the UNO Student Center.

Pflaster commented Tuesday on the university's Newman Club having a priest say mass at the center.

He said when UNO was still a municipal university there was no problem in the Newman Club's reserving a room in the student center for one-hour services on Friday of each week.

However, Pflaster said now that UNO is a state institution such services for any denomination are prohibited by state law.

Officers of the Newman Club said the group will continue to hold weekly mass at St. Margaret Mary Church across the street from the UNO campus.

Curtis Still Resists Direct Election Plan

Washington (AP) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., says he will continue to work against proposed direct election of the president, despite President Nixon's endorsement Tuesday.

Curtis says he does not regard the presidential endorsement "as a party pronouncement intended to bind any senator."

Curtis said adoption of direct election methods would result in Nebraska's political power being "reduced about 20%."

The senator said he will continue to work for reform of the Electoral College by advocating a district plan which would "minimize the possible effect of irregularities and corruption."

Missouri Valley, Iowa (AP) — James W. Sayer will replace Kermit D. Dybsetter as manager of DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge north of Omaha, the Federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife announced.

Crime Hearings Slated In Omaha By Congressmen

Washington (UPI) — Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., Wednesday named four more cities where his house crime committee will hold field hearings during the next two months.

Pepper said the panel, which is making a broad investigation of the causes of crime, will be in Omaha Oct. 9-10-11; in San Francisco for "several days' beginning Oct. 13; in Columbia, S.C., Nov. 14-15 and in Miami, Fla., for "several days" beginning Dec. 4."

Load Of Marijuana Seized In North Platte

North Platte (AP) — Three persons from San Diego, Calif. were being question ! Wednesday afternoon in connection with police finding a car-trailer loaded with what they believe is marijuana.

Detective Larry Tappan said a motel operator noticed the trio — two men and a woman — changing cars several times. He said they parked a car bearing California plates at the airport and had rented another car for use in North Platte.

When notified about midnight Tuesday, Tappan went to the motel and said he smelled what he thought to be marijuana. Police set a stakeout and arrested the trio late in the forenoon as they left the motel.

The three being questioned were identified as William Eversole, 30; his wife, Barbara, 25, and a brother, Kenneth, 28.

Tappan said a gun was found in one of the cars.

Tractor dealers here say sponsors and attenders of teen-age dances are buying quite a few special soft rubber ear plugs designed for use in enclosed tractor and combine cabs.

The plugs don't cut out sound altogether, but reduce high-pitched sound waves which at high volumes have been blamed for ear damage.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

In its latest issue, Newsweek magazine carries an extensive article on "The Troubled American." The article is an analysis of the middle-class citizen of the nation and how he feels about the times in which he lives.

Typical, perhaps, is the following paragraph: "People seemed almost pathetically eager to talk, as if nobody had ever asked before, and almost universally they were in a fretful, fearful, disquieted mood. What people seem to want above all else is order: they want everybody to just quiet down and quit threatening to destroy what they have worked so hard to build and preserve.

"They are hostile toward poor and rich alike — toward the poor for being on welfare, toward the rich for not paying taxes — and they are increasingly cynical about politicians . . ."

★

The mood fits in many ways the mood of the national administration in Washington as described in Lincoln by columnist Rowland Evans. Evans expressed the opinion that, except for Vietnam, the Nixon administration has not yet zeroed in on a specific course of action.

It is an administration that is treading softly in the many areas of our domestic life that are troubling people today. Beyond this, much of what is troubling people is not entirely a matter of government.

People are worried about the racial matter, inflation, education, Vietnam, campus unrest, hippies, crime and a host of other things. They question the so-called new morality, the breakdown of authority and the role of the church in the affairs of society.

In total, they seem to feel a great uncertainty over the future and a great frustration with the nation's inability to solve its problems. But it was also pointed out in the Newsweek article that the American people still want to help the poor and underprivileged to have a better way of life.

Not many really prejudiced citizens were found but quite a few who, in generalities, saw threats to their own way of life. They saw minority groups and the poor as a burden which they viewed as sometimes unfair and sometimes unjustified.

We wonder if the mood of the nation today is any different in reality than it has often been in the past. You can look back to just about any period in history and find middle-class America disturbed about something.

Moral standards have been explored and condemned for as long as this writer can remember, certainly far beyond the past year or two. The "generation gap" may be a new term but it means the same old thing — the inability of older and younger people to carry on effective communication.

Financial insecurity and hard work are the root of many present anxieties and it has always been this way. Most of us today had parents whom we can remember as having worked long and hard to provide us with the necessities of life.

If things are different today, it must be in the nature of their severity. The young, the poor, the disadvantaged, the very rich and others not a part of the vast middle class of America are no longer ignored nor do most of them intend to be ignored.

And if this great middle class of Americans is more disgruntled and frustrated than ever before, what will be the consequences? Perhaps we see it already in a swing in some parts of the country to political conservatism.

If the middle-class uprising ever comes, as some think it will, it will likely come at the ballot box in an outpouring for law and order, for less government and for fewer international commitments.

But if it does so happen, the pendulum will very likely swing within time in the other direction and the challenge to innovate and move ahead will prevail. In any event, the mood of the American people may be hardening and forming already the seeds of tomorrow's social, political and economic developments.

'This Week's Lip-Service Will Be On Tax Reform'

Oil Depletion Loophole

The oil depletion allowance, which allows the oil industry to escape taxation of a substantial portion of its profits, has been the biggest target of tax reformers because it displays the grossest inequities in the federal tax system.

Testifying before the Senate Finance Committee, which is now debating the House-passed reform bill which calls for a reduction in the depletion allowance from 27.5% to 20%, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., in very simple language made clear the case for narrowing the loophole:

"Any tax system which requires 2.2 million people under the poverty level to pay federal income taxes, yet allows Atlantic Richfield to earn over $465 million between 1964 and 1967 (the non-taxable portion of its earnings) without paying one red cent in federal income taxes clearly requires revision . . . Imagine, gigantic Atlantic Richfield paid less in federal income taxes than the janitor who cleaned this room last night."

Proxmire and nine other senators are sponsoring an amendment which would reduce the depletion allowance as the income goes up, thus giving a tax advantage to wildcatters, giving them incentive for exploration — which is one valid reason for an allowance — while requiring "the major oil companies that have been enjoying fantastic profits to pay their fair share of the tax burden," in the words of the Wisconsin Democrat.

The amendment has less a chance of Senate approval than the House-passed reform, which has the belated tacit approval of President Nixon, even in the face of his campaign promises to strive for the status quo. Many senators, including Nebraska's Roman Hruska, are hesitant to change the law which lines the pockets of the oil industry while depriving the federal treasury of an estimated $1.3 billon per year in tax revenue. It will be interesting to note how Sen. Hruska and his election opponents next year resolve this issue.

No Cause For Revolution

We doubt that the average citizen will complain as much as Gov. Norbert Tiemann has done about the now official state tax rates for 1969-71. Those rates will be 2½ per cent for the sales tax and 13 per cent for the income tax, up ½ and 3 per cent respectively.

The governor is making a big issue out of who should be setting the rates and how senators loused things up generally in the fiscal area. What he should be doing is trying to tell people what they will be getting for their higher tax payments.

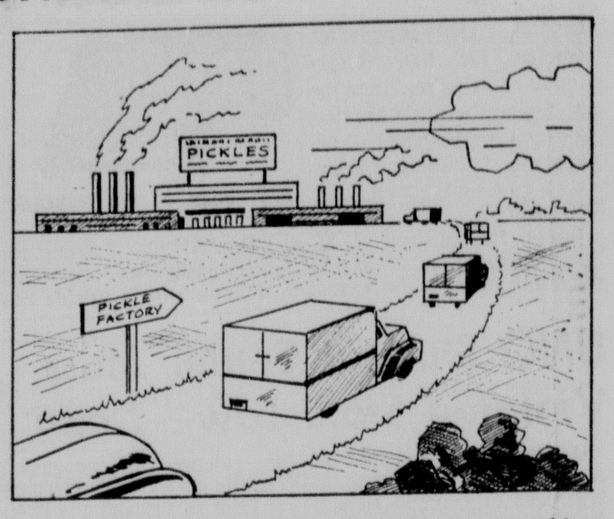
They will be getting better education, better institutions, better government and many other specific things. Highways are not a part of the above tax funds, at least to any appreciable degree, but they, too, will be better if they hit no snag from federal cutbacks.

Local property owners will be getting relief on their local property tax, too, as a result of sales and income revenue from the state going back to them. The Nebraska Legislature enacted a host of programs and service improvements that will help this state tremendously in the future and it takes more tax money to support these things.

People will be better served and the opportunity for a better way of life for all citizens will be the product of these two tax increases. And the rates are certainly not such as to warrant any claim of confiscatory. Nebraska citizens will still be spending less on government than the citizens of most states. The new tax rates are far from a cause for any alarm and are lower, in fact, than it was thought they might turn out to be.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country



The sky of October is a high sky for it still holds the last glow of summer, yet at times is swept across by some great sigh of wind that sweeps a heavy purple haze across the meadows and fields. Even in sunlight the horizon seems blue and indistinct.

All blooming is done. The bright green gives way to the brown in the pine's new cones and the grass beside the roadways is drier with every westering sun. I like this time that I call finishing time when there is a heady, musty scent of stacked hay and rustling corn tassels, the proud burning of the scarlet sumac like a flame of destiny over the underbrush and the final radiance of the goldenrod like chain lightning that zig-zags along the fence rows.

In the meantime, the second crop of tomatoes is coming on bigger and more profuse than the first fruiting. With the cool days and nights, they are somewhat slower in ripening.

At the present time we are having a battle with the grasshoppers to see who gets the "mostest firstest." We have found if we pick ours when they are tinged with a bit of pink and before a hopper has had a chance to nibble on them, we get many more than if we let them ripen on the vine. Once a tomato is damaged by a small hole, it seems to rot before it has a chance to ripen.

I am somewhat disappointed by the Golden Nugget tomatoes. Though their fruit is large and smooth, mild of taste and very different, they do not bear very heavily. We have not harvested a third as many of this variety as we have of the red ones.

Several weeks ago in desperation we went through the cucumber patch with the roto tiller, after having removed some of the vines since they wrapped around the tiller and presented quite a problem. Cucumbers left on the ground flew hither and yon and were chopped in bits and worked into the ground. They will make good organic matter, I told The Farmer, as nature always returned to the soil the residue of the seasons. We have had several rains and sunlight, just the things needed for sprouting seeds. Last evening when I looked over the old cucumber patch, I found young plants growing almost on top of one another. If our warm season continued as it does in Florida, we would be hauling cucumbers to the pickle factory by the truckload. That's nature's way, too, I thought as I scanned the young plants. Such vigor they have and were they thinned and it were spring, I would have the best cucumbers in the neighborhood. Sometimes you can't win for losing.

Next year I will not bother with any cucmbers as The Farmer is not a pickle eater. I like them very much but after eating them by oneself, a jar of pickles goes a long way. For some reason after a day or two of pickles, the jar begins to look bigger and bigger.

I believe I will let Peter Piper raise a peck of pickled pickles as long as he is raising a peck of pickled peppers, anyway. That way we will all be happy. If Peter Piper has an excess of pickled pickles he can give them to the tutor who taught two tutors to toot.

The Land's Value

Chester, Neb.

Everything written about the Platte River dam has reflected personal nostalgia and short-term monetary gain for Omaha and Lincoln. The ultimate repercussion beyond garnering urban votes and attracting a few "paper bucks" from weekend sailors is being evaded.

Only the sale of raw materials injects new wealth into any economy. Other sources merely result in a stagnant circulation of present revenue. Farm commodities provide 70 per cent of our total new wealth for the economy. Farm prices are depressed, yet they do offer some fresh assets to our system. Flooding the specified Platte River region will not just evict countless families from their homes, but will kill this earned income in Nebraska and the nation forever.

Gross National Product is the index of this century. National earned income has conveniently escaped our planning. History proves that for each dollar earned at farm level, it generates seven dollars of earned income as it passes through the economic structure. A single example many Nebraskans will remember. Between 1929-1933, farmers lost $6.8 billion. National earned income dropped $47.6 billion, or seven times. A 54 per cent decline in available money resulted. Even though a sandwich cost merely five cents in 1932, very few had that nickel with which to buy.

According to the Gallup Poll, Americans feel inflation is of major concern. Not only will the proposed dam serve as a paper magnet for Omaha and Lincoln, but it will also magnify inflation!

John Kenneth Galbraith, economics professor at Harvard, writes in "The New Industrial State": "Any gap in overall economic stability becomes the weak link and a weak link in an unbalanced economy causes rampant inflation, unrest, disorder and eventually will make an economic structure come crumbling down." "The Report of Economic Advisers" points out that corporate profits increased 130.0 per cent, wages jumped 153.4 per cent, and farm income rose a meager 5.9 per cent from 1950-66. Anybody can read these figures and determine where our imbalance occurs. By having our Nebraska representatives dispose of more farms will make the problem more complex, not improved. This proposal is another of Washington's fallacious salvations for our rural state. It robs us of our only weapon against inflation — farm income.

Our Platte River dam is disguised as progress. Ask yourself, if current federal planning has been so progressive, why must kids be slaughtered to preserve corporate investments in foreign lands? Why must wage earners suffer devaluation of their earnings? Why must Nebraska's population decline because farms and small communities are devoured by corporate giants? And why must our cities become centers of anarchy because persons being chased from rural America have nothing awaiting them on the other end except mass social problems that degrade our once magnificent urban centers? It's something to think about!

Those intimately involved in the final decision should look past political careers and those few paper dollars. Let's all hope they act in the most beneficial way for all of Nebraska and not just a select few. If the truth is discovered about agriculture's value, I'm certain a great deal of deliberation will take place before this choice Nebraska land is destroyed forever.

Golden Rule

Unadilla, Neb.

What makes a man? Is it the way he wears his hair? His color? His looks? The way he dresses? For some reason, we tend to judge people by their looks. We condemn the young people because they wear long hair. We condemn the black man because he is black.

But regardless of these things, each one is a person who feels, thinks, loves and needs love the same as anyone else. If we would only treat everyone the same way we expect to be treated, this would be a much better world.

Poverty Funds Cut, Office Redecorated

WASHINGTON — Anti-poverty czar Donald Rumsfeld has fearlessly wielded an economy ax on programs for the poor, shutting down the program in Minneapolis and lopping $1 million off the poverty budget for Washington, telling aides: "You worry too much about what Congress might say."

He has used some of the savings to give his own executive suite a more luxurious look, thus reducing the poverty in his immediate surroundings.

Under Sargent Shriver, the anti-poverty director's office was unique in government. There were no carpets, and the furnishings were prim. Rumsfeld has now added improvements.

To be prepared should his budget-cutting efforts prove tiresome, he has added a bedroom to his executive suite. Expensive lamps now give a soft, restful glow to the walls that were once lit by fluorescent tubes.

The stark photographs of poverty are gone from the walls, replaced by pastoral scenes. And as evidence of his new cabinet rank, Rumsfeld has added the ultimate in executive status symbols: a private bathroom.

☆ ☆ ☆

Despite these expenses for his own comfort, he can show a neat savings on his operations. This has been accomplished with "selective cuts" in local programs.

In a confidential memorandum to his regional directors, Rumsfeld has outlined his plans. The document is heavy with rhetoric about "new directions" and states in the ponderous language of government:

"This will require, among other actions, selective cuts in some local initiative programs in order to free up funds now allocated to less effective programs into an 'opportunity reserve' for these new initiatives."

☆ ☆ ☆

One vulnerable program for Washington's poor is a credit union, which has been unusually successful. The credit union has helped poverty mothers pool $1 million in nickels and dimes, and has showed them how to avoid the loan sharks.

"What we want to do," a Rumsfeld aide explained candidly to this column, "is turn away from poverty programs that are identified with the Democrats and put the money into new ones that have a Nixon image."

It should be added that the President's anti-poverty program, though still on paper, looks promising.

Colleges Trying Student Authority Experiment; Vietnam Remains Greatest Area Of Discontent

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Universities and colleges across the country are searching for ways to give protesting and alienated students a share in responsibility and authority. The rebellion on the campuses is ominous evidence that the old structure with authority vested in a remote board of trustees and handed down through an almost equally remote administration cannot survive.

The concern is not merely with a few far-outers. As the polls have shown, a large majority of the moderates are sympathetic with the aims of the activists. The issue is hardly less than what role an entire generation will play in the future. Too permissive, spoiled, lazy, wanting the world handed to them on a platter — the terms of opprobrium from the older generation will not explain away the rejection of so many of the young.

At Harvard here on the East Coast and at Stanford University on the West Coast, the effort is to bring the young into governing bodies responsible for discipline and administration. Harvard has named a 35-member panel on the governance of the university, made up of faculty, students, alumni and overseers and formed to recommend basic changes in the structure. This was in response to an overseers' report that found both students and many faculty members unhappy over the teaching and its relevance to the world outside.

Similar experiments are going forward on innumerable campuses. They may be too little and too late. Some critics hold that student participation is no answer, and that putting the young in the authority mix will only result in more trouble compounded by delay and frustration in exercising any discipline at all.

The trouble is administrators are faced with fact and not theory. They are groping for answers to ease the tensions and put the university back on the learning track. To change the command — to oust the president because some of the faculty consider him an old fuddy-duddy — is no answer. This will only whet the appetite of the activists who will then start out to get the next man down the line.

Constructive changes are occurring. Harvard has initiated an impressive Afro-American Studies Department. As evolved by a committee of faculty and students, the department offers courses in black history from 800 B.C. right down to today's ideological evolution of separatism and the smouldering ghettos. Already 100 students, black and white, have applied to concentrate in the department for a degree, more than twice the number that can be accommodated under the present setup.

It is easy enough to sneer, as some Establishment Negroes have done, at the black studies programs being set up in many universities. Some may be on the thin and tendentious side. Where the program has been carefully thought out, as it was here, it should serve to open the whole submerged world of the black hitherto encouraged to forget his past and strive to find a niche in the white man's world.

☆ ☆ ☆

Harvard is fortunate in having Dr. Ewart Guinier as head of the new department. A Harvard graduate during the depression years, he has had a remarkable career in government and the trade unions. Guinier believes that not alone through book learning but in actual firsthand experience in the ghettos, students in the new department will understand the role of the black in the long perspective of history. Prominent blacks, both radicals and conservatives, ranging from Andrew F. Brimmer, a member of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, to Rap Brown, will lecture during the year.

None of this, of course, touches the deepest source of student discontent—the Vietnam war and the increasingly hostile criticism of President Nixon for the slow pace with which the war is being phased out. The date of the student strike being organized by the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam and allied forces is only two weeks away.

All signs point to a demonstration on campuses across the country. As an orderly protest, it must impress even the President, despite his extraordinary press conference statement that he will pay no heed to any student manifestation. Going beyond the bounds of orderly protest in violence and coercion, the demonstration can only inflame the resentment of the great middle mass of the Nixon constituency.

Sales Tax Set At 2½%

. . . STATE INCOME TAX RATE WILL BE 13%

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Equalization Wednesday set the state sales tax rate at 2½% beginning Jan. 1, an increase from the present 2%.

The individual income tax rate was increased to 13% from 10% for the 1970 calendar year, and the corporate income tax was boosted to 2.6% from 2%.

Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil told the board the combination will produce $149 million during 1970, and "very closely" follows the legislative directive for approximately equal amounts from both tax sources.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, board chairman, said the Legislature "could have set the rates" in noting the board's rate-setting action followed by a week the adjournment of the 1969 session.

"It would have been their responsibility," he added.

Hikes Said Avoidable

Tiemann also suggested 2½% sales and 10% income rates could have been maintained for 1970 had not the Legislature permitted the sales tax to slip to 2% during the special session last December.

McNeil said his office used the same general procedures in projecting revenues and expenditures as used in setting the 1967 and 1968 income tax rates.

Total revenue receipts for the 1969-71 biennium are estimated at $391.1 million for the state general fund, but excludes $12.3 million in sales taxes, $1.6 million in motor fuels and $2 million in registration fees diverted by the Legislature to the highway funds.

McNeil said $351.7 million will be available for general fund expenditures during the biennium after deducting $19.5 million in state aid to cities and counties and $20 million for the sales-income tax refund account. Included is a 5% reserve as permitted by statutes.

Miscellaneous receipts of $98.4 million are estimated from excise taxes and other sources.

Sales and income tax rates, McNeil said, will produce $146.9 million in sales taxes, $128.6 million in individual income taxes, and $17.1 million in corporate taxes during the 1969-71 biennium.

Projected Growth

McNeil said the sales tax revenues were projected on an annual growth rate of 5%, possibly "somewhat optimistic because of the tightening of the economy and construction cutbacks."

The individual income rate was projected on an 8% annual growth, he said. "Income tax receipts will tend to increase more sharply than sales tax revenue because of the progressive nature of the federal income tax base."

Nebraska's income tax is based on a percentage of the federal liability.

McNeil said 2% growth on corporate tax revenue was based on national economic opinion that "profits will tend to go down thopgh volume will increase."

CARMICHAEL

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Your chances of being killed in an auto accident increase five times if you are thrown from your car. Remember that using your seat belt can help keep you safe.

Recent accident studies show that use of seat belts can eliminate at least one-third of all automobile injuries. They are the best low cost safety feature available for an auto, yet many people fail to use them.

Some people feel that because they do not drive fast or take long trips, they have no need for seat belts. The truth is that more than half of the accidents causing injury or death involve speeds of less than 40 miles per hour. And three out of four traffic deaths occur within 25 miles of home.

Seat belts will not stop accidents — but they will reduce deaths and injuries.

Plastic To Be Tried

Plainfield, N.J. (UPI) — Wood Industries, Inc. said it would deliver equipment for plastic newspaper printing plates within 10 days to the Philadelphia Bulletin, which is to begin a six-month production trial.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

They Would Rather Be Jungle Tribesmen

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q.—"You quoted a black postal worker who was retired and said that after visiting Africa he felt Blacks should be grateful to whites. Seems he and his family of Uncle Toms feel the United States is great and that if it hadn't been for whites bringing slaves to this rat race us Blacks wouldn't have the 'privilege' of being here today. Some privilege! My wife and I would rather be ignorant jungle tribesmen than half-educated Black Americans doomed to a life as second-class citizens.

A.—Who says you're second-class citizens? If you still harbor that dated attitude you must be unaware what's been happening the past five year. Americans of all colors have the opportunity of creating a comfortable, rewarding life if they demonstrate their willingness to work, take advantage of free education, don't create more mouths than they can feed, and count their blessings occasionally.

Q. — "I'm a back-lash white who was beginning to dislike Blacks. Then I read that wonderful letter you quoted from a retired Black postal worker who visited Africa. Seems he was appalled by the squalor and poverty over there, and since his return has been thanking God in his prayers that whites brought his ancestors to America so he and his descendants can enjoy the benefits of being an American. I'd like to have him as my neighbor for he obviously loves America as I do. But do you think many Blacks share his views?"

A.—Yes, I think most Blacks recognize that despite circumstances which brought their ancestors here and delays in winning rights, their descendants are enormously fortunate to be here with access to a string of opportunities denied their brethren in Africa.

Q.—"Will you tell that Black postal worker I agree? My ancestors came here as indentured brewery workers bossed by ruthless German immigrants who made them work from 12 to 14 hours a day for five years to pay debts and passage. If my ancestors were living today I'm sure they'd say a word of gratitude about those brewery bosses who brought them over in hock since it has given their descendants precious U.S. citizenship."

A.—Your letter confirms that some whites as well as Blacks came to this country under circumstances less than exemplary.

NU Athletes, Employes Get 'Electric Chair' Test

University of Nebraska athletes and employes are getting an "electric chair" experience as a part of their university life.

The "electric chair" is in reality a recliner-like chair which registers a screening electrocardiogram. It was designed by Dr. Kenneth Rose, chief of the division of medical research at the University Health Service.

First built in 1964 by Dr. W. D. Corley Jr., then with the department of preventive medicine at the University Medical Center, the idea was an outgrowth of a project for Engineering Week. The chair is padded and vinyl-covered with its own adjustable headrest for added comfort.

Large Electrodes

What makes it different from an ordinary chair are the large, copper electrodes, four of them, which are found on the arm and leg rests. Dr. Rose explains it is through these the screening EKG is possible. "The key is the big electrodes," he adds.

When the patient sits in the chair, his arms and legs rest on these electrodes. Saline-soaked gauze pads provide the media for conducting the electricity rather than the jelly-like substance used in diagnostic electrocardiograms.

And all the patient has to do is to sit and relax. He can be on his way in 30 to 45 seconds.

Not Complete

Dr. Rose stresses the screening EKG is not a complete, diagnostic electrocardiogram because there are no chest contacts. The screening EKG has only half the number of leads the diagnostic EKG has, but Dr. Rose says its accuracy has been proven to more than 97%.

The screening technique is somewhat controversial when the question of usefulness comes up, Dr. Rose says. It depends on what the needs are, he feels. "You sacrifice absolute accuracy in return for being able to do large masses of people in a short time," he explains.

The University Health Center rates the screening EKG's as "normal, abnormal, or doubtful." If results fall in either the abnormal or doubtful category, Dr. Rose says the patient is called back in for a complete diagnostic EKG.

"We take a look. If it's perfectly normal — and for all practical purposes it is 97.75% accurate — we tell them they've got a normal EKG," Dr. Rose says.

'ELECTRIC CHAIR' . . . test is given to NU varsity fullback Mike Green by Dr. Rose.

Right now the 1,500 EKG's recorded annually at the Health Center are microfilmed for permanent records. Dr. Rose says consideration is being made to tie the screening EKG into a computer for even faster, more accurate results.

Development of the screening technique came about, Dr. Rose explains, for two reasons. Screening of all NU athletes began after a star football player received a heart injury when hit in the chest by the helmeted head of an opponent.

Dr. Rose recalls there was no way of checking his complete heart damage because he had never had an electrocardiogram prior to the accident. A screening EKG, Dr. Rose points out, would have provided at least some points of comparison in diagnosing the extent of damage he sustained.

Voluntary screening of University employes for medical-legal reasons began after a suit alleging irritation of an existing heart condition was successfully brought against the university following the death of an employe.

Emergency Extended

Kampala (AP) — Uganda's Parliament has extended for six months a state of emergency in the former kingdom of Buganda, where a crackdown began in 1966 when the Buganda ruler, Sir Edward Mutesa, unsuccessfully challenged Uganda's President Milton Obote.

Governor Notified Road Funds Approved

Federal officials notified Gov. Norbert Tiemann Wednesday about $9 million in highway funds for the second quarter of fiscal 1970 have been approved, according to the governor's office.

Officials said this would enable Nebraska to proceed on schedule with highway plans.

Gov. Tiemann had on occasion expressed his concern over the delay in releasing the highway funds due to the proximity of President Nixon's decision to cut back federal expenditures for other kinds of construction.

The governor's office said the confirmation came by telephone from Washington and written notice was expected to arrive Thursday.

Boher Selected

Omaha (UPI) — John J. Bohrer has been named president of the College of St. Mary board of regents.

Elected vice president was Charles E. Peterson Jr.

Tiemann Signs Last Law Of '69

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has signed into law the last 1969 legislative bill still on his desk.

The measure, LB798, deals with the freeholder method of transferring taxable land from one school district to another.

Some school and Parent-Teacher Association leaders wanted the bill vetoed, and the governor was known to have given some consideration to a veto.

A provision in LB798 permits an accredited Class VI high school district to pay tuition for students to attend high school elsewhere, under certain conditions, without the taxable property of the affected students' parents being transferred from the Class VI district.

Realtors Elect

Omaha (UPI) — Harold B. Scott was elected president of the Omaha Real Estate Board.

He succeeds Victor J. Lich.

Greater Foreign Aid Urged; Results Said Encouraging

The New York Times

The first international study of aid to poor countries, prepared by an independent commission of eight distinguished citizens from as many countries, concluded Wednesday that the aid effort was "flagging" at the very time when the drive for economic development was beginning to produce results.

The Commission on International Development, headed by Lester B. Pearson, former prime minister of Canada, presented its 230-page report to the World Bank's governors, assembled here for their annual meeting.

The report began by conceding that "the climate surrounding foreign aid programs is heavy with disillusion and distrust," particularly in the United States, but said that in fact, "economic growth in many of the developing countries has proceeded at faster rates than the industrial countries ever enjoyed at a similar stage in their own history."

Saying that "the widening gap between the developed and developing countries has become a central issue of our time," the report asserted that "it is the progress that has been made and the lessons that have been learned that would make any weakening at this time of the commitment to international development so foolish and so tragic."

In a personal address to the bank's governors, who are the world's finance ministers, Pearson said: "I know that that road to nowhere is paved with good reports — and some not so good. I hope that ours may deserve a better fate. But that will be up to governments. They dispose of what commissions propose."

The commission advocated a large increase in government aid (as distinct from private investment), to seven-tenths of one per cent of the gross national product of the industrial countries by 1975, compared with just under four-tenths in 1968. For the U.S., this would mean an aid program of more than $8 billion.

The commission also made numerous other recommendations. It urged that 20% of aid by 1975 be channeled through the World Bank and other international institutions, compared with 10% now. And it proposed a new form of political relationship between donor and receiver to avoid some of the problems of the past.

Aside from purely moral considerations for giving aid, the report said that "concern with the needs of other and poorer nations is the expression of a new and fundamental aspect of the modern age — the awareness that we live in a village world, that we belong to a world community."

Denney Praises Plan To Increase Social Security

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Robert Denney, R-Neb., Wednesday praised President Nixon for proposing a 10% increase in Social Security benefits coupled with cost-of-living adjustments.

"President Nixon had joined the growing numbers of legislators who realize the urgent need to combat the negative impact inflation has made on the value of every Social Security check," Denney said in his weekly "Washington Report."

He said the House Ways and Means Committee would begin hearings this month on Social Security changes, including his proposal to increase the amount of outside income recipients may earn without losing benefits.

"Inflation has been damaging to all of us, but it is a particularly great hardship on our elderly citizens whose income is primarily Social Security benefits," he said.

Men, Dogs Slated For Night Patrol At Iowa Schools

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — An experimental program to use men and dogs for night patrols at public schools here has been approved by the school board.

The board acted after receiving a report that $4,700 worth of tools and equipment at public schools has been damaged or stolen since June.

Supt. William A. Anderson said the night patrols will be used until Jan. 1. While the patrols are working, the board will consider the use of electronic alarm systems in the schools, Anderson said.

Nebraska Agriculture Could Be Hurt By Rail Shutdown

By The Associated Press

Spokesmen for the railroad and trucking industries in Nebraska warned Wednesday the threatened nationwide shutdown of rail service could hurt agriculture and some businesses in the state.

They said the shutdown might particularly hit those farmers attempting to ship grain in the next few weeks. But a government crop expert disagreed.

Kenneth Logan of Lincoln, state-federal agricultural statistician, said it is "highly unlikely there will be much loss of grain" due to any delay in shipment of grain to terminal storage points.

All Rails Affected

The National Railway Labor Conference, which represents management of the nation's 76 major railroads, says it will shut down all rail service if shopcraft unions carry out selective strikes against some railraods.

"You just can't shut down 76 railraods in this country and not have near chaos while it's in effect," said James N. Preston, Lincoln, managing director of the Nebraska Motor Carrier Association.

He said railraods carry about 40% of all freight moved in the nation.

'Effect Serious'

"Any time a major segment of the transportation industry is completely shut down, it is going to have a serious adverse effect on the overall movement of freight," said Preston.

A Union Pacific Railroad spokesman said handling grain, such as the milo crop, the harvest of which is just beginning, is "difficult under the best conditions. It's harvested all at once, and it's hard enough when we're operating to supply all the cars that are needed."

The official said some grain might spoil if it had to be stored for any length of time in the rain, but Logan said "the stuff sheds water. I've seen some of it left on the ground for up to 30 or 60 days with not much loss."

He predicted that 1969 will turn out to be a bumper crop year in Nebraska for milo, soybeans and corn.

One area of freight that might be affected by a rail strike, according to Preston, is new automobile shipments.

He said there is no statewide plan among truckers in case the strike occurs, he added: "Individual lines will do everything they can to gear up to handle whatever increased traffic they can . . . There's no way of dumping the freight carried by rail on the rest of the industry and do it in an orderly fashion."

Administration Facing Tough Rail Decision

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration faced up Wednesday to a choice between blocking an impending strike against six major railroads or dealing with the threat of a nationwide shutdown of rail service.

The deadline for a presidential decision is 12:01 a.m. Saturday, when four shopcraft unions have called a work stoppage on selected lines. Railroad operators retaliated Tuesday with a warning they will halt traffic on all of the country's 76 major roads if the "whipsaw" strike action goes through.

The immediate issue for the government is whether to invoke the Railway Laor Act and start emergency board proceedings which would automatically postpone a strike for 60 days.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz has met with both parties in the contract wage dispute and is reported to be holding a fading hope that even a short breathing spell might get them down to hard bargaining.

That hope was all but dashed by a union protest that the operators' threat of a complete shutdown was aimed at forcing government intervention in the dispute.

Steers, Heifers Will Have To Be Bigger Next Year

An increase in the minimum weights of 4-H market steers and heifers to be exhibited at the 1970 Nebraska State Fair and the 1970 Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show has been announced by Henry Brandt, manager of the Nebraska State Fair, and Tom Brock, general manager of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben.

The minimum weight for market heifers will be 850 pounds, compared to the present 800 pounds, and the weight for market steers to be considered for purple ribbon awards and breed champions will be 950 pounds, compared to the present 900 pounds.

The move is being made to adjust to present-day beef industry standards, said Brandt and Brock.

Dave Williams, University of Nebraska 4-H livestock specialist, said the increase in minimum weights has been recommended by all recognized national beef breed associations.

Midland Hosts Financial Aids Officers Meeting

Fremont (UPI) — Midland College Thursday hosts the fall meeting of the Nebraska Association of Student Financial Aids Administrators here.

Harold E. Nott, Midland's financial aids officer, said he expects 40 persons from 30 colleges, junior colleges and technical schools across the state to be on hand.

Dr. Hugh Satterlee, director of financial aids at the University of Illinois, addresses the group during the morning session. Discussing federal programs during the afternoon session are Will Hollingsworth, chief of National Defense Student Loans, Washington, D.C., and Dr. Joseph Wettstein, field representative, United States Office of Education, Region VI Kansas City, Mo.

Judge Welcomes Court Law Test

Grand Island (UPI) — Municipal Court Judge John Story said he welcomes a test in the State Supreme Court of the municipal court law which set up the courts in Grand Island and Scottsbluff.

He made his comment as the Grand Island court formally opened, marking the first time such a court system has existed in Nebraska outside of Omaha and Lincoln.

Back to School With Vitamins

Here's a health tip from Gilmour-Danielson Drug Company. The opening of school and the coming of fall mean that more than ever your children may need a vitamin supplement to insure continued good health. The change in sleep, exercise, and eating habits brought on by school often demands that your children supplement their diet with vitamins. In fact, your doctor may have already recommended a vitamin supplement. If he has, bring his advice to Gilmour-Danielson Drug, and we'll see that his wishes are met precisely.

Please tell how officials are picked for Nebraska football games, how much they are paid, and if the official who goofed in the Southern Cal-Nebraska game got paid?
—Mrs. Earl Lanham, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Officials for Big Eight conference games are selected and assigned by conference commissioners. If an official is associated with one particular conference school — former player or coach, for example — that official is never assigned to a game in which that school is a contestant. Officials for inter-conference games are assigned by each of the two involved conferences with the home team conference generally assigning three and the opponent conference two of the officials.

Big Eight officials receive $150 per game plus 25 cents per mile one way. Only the Big 10 and Southeastern Conferences pay more — $200 per game. The official who did not see the USC quarterback cross the line of scrimmage before passing received money for officiating. It is safe to say, however, that had his paycheck been left to Big Red fans, it would have equaled his eyesight.

A letter sent to parents and titled "A Warm Welcome To Bryan School" stated that children living over six blocks from school have the "privilege" of bringing lunch to school? What is this business? —G.P., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: That was not to say those children living within six blocks from school cannot bring lunch — it was just to encourage those children to go home to eat if possible. Bryan is the only school in Lincoln that does not have hot lunch program facilities and children are encouraged to eat a hot lunch because it is better for them, explain Lincoln Public School officials. So if the mother is home and the walk is not too far (or too cold in winter), the child is encouraged to go home.

In fact, students the school system over are encouraged to eat a hot lunch — either at the school (preferred) or to go home. Secondary schools in the system all have closed campuses forcing the student to eat in the building.

Viewing the news on channel 10 recently, I heard about some money (collected at a dinner) being sent to Italy to support art. I need full details? —Mrs. D.H., Seward

ACTION LINE: At a recent news conference, Governor Norbert Tiemann corrected reports that proceeds from the Governor's Inaugural Ball (1966) were used to pay Republican campaign expenses. The money was sent to the Nebraska Arts Council to help finance the Biennale Art Exhibit in Venice, Italy in 1968. That exhibit, by the way, utilized the talents of Sheldon Art Gallery Director Norman Geske to select the representative American artists.

Hope you don't think I'm silly on this one — how do our men in space use the bathroom in such a small capsule? —D. T., Lincoln

ACTION: No sillier than persons who wonder the same thing about flagpole sitters. To urinate, the astronauts use a 100-inch flexible tube which terminates at an overboard dump-valve in the wall of the command module. Heating coils in the valve prevent freezing until the urine hits the outside air. Once in space, the free-floating cloud of ice particles often drifts along with the spacecraft until it disperses. Solid body wastes are deposited in a plastic bag equipped with toilet paper and a wet-wipe cleansing tissue. After use, a germicide is placed in the bag which is then sealed and stored in a waste storage compartment.

Apollo 11 left the first extra-terrestrial sewage on the moon. The lunar module, unlike the command ship, has no overboard dump valve and urine had to be contained in bags. The moon men were instructed to leave behind everything they could to lighten the module for its blast-off from the moon; this included the plastic bags.

Why and who permits light aircraft to fly over Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoons? Makes me nervous.
—Eye In The Sky Fan

ACTION LINE: Lincoln's Safety Director Emmett Junge says all aircraft must maintain an altitude of at least 1,000 feet above congested areas, including such open air gatherings as the stadium, which does become congested on Saturday afternoons with home football games. Only by special permit may aircraft be permitted to operate at a lower altitude and no requests for such permits have come to Junge's office recently. Mel Wood of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) has received no complaints about the flights and quoted one FAA spokesman as saying the helicopter, for example, is maintaining a safe altitude that would permit it to land in case of emergency. Planes towing banners for advertising purposes must have special authorization to fly over the stadium, but other small planes may do so at will as long as they follow the safe altitude rule. Wood says these small planes are in two-way radio contact with the Lincoln Airport air traffic control for clearance.

Could be the small plane pilots are jealous since the Huskers have such a fine aerial attack this year. Ohhh. That one hurt.

Russians Accused Of Plane Theft Plot

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — The Lebanese government Wednesday night ordered expulsion of two Russians charged with plotting to steal a Lebanese air force jet fighter.

Both were seriously wounded by gunfire in a raid Tuesday night by Lebanese security forces on a Beirut apartment. The Soviet Embassy said the men were victims of a carefully staged Lebanese plot and were shot in cold blood. It denied the men were involved in an attempt to steal a Lebanese Mirage jet fighter.

A Lebanese foreign ministry statement said the decision to ask the two Russians to leave as soon as they are able was taken "in accord with diplomatic norms and after consultation with Lebanese judicial authorities and Soviet Embassy officials."

'Provocation'

A Soviet Embassy statement said the Lebanese action was "a brutal, premeditated and libelous provocation" aimed at sabotaging friendly relations between the Soviet Union and the Arab world. It blamed "reactionary and pro-imperialist forces" in Lebanon and demanded that Lebanon punish those responsible.

The two Russians involved are Alexander Komiakov, first secretary at the embassy, and Vladimir Vassiliev, an employe of the Russian commercial center.

The statement said they were "in very grave conditon" at the Lebanese military hospital and under a virtual state of arrest.

Diplomats Barred

Embassy diplomats were forbidden to see them, the statement said.

Earlier, authoritative Lebanese sources said the two Russians had tried to commit suicide when they were arrested after a gun battle Tuesday night.

The sources said the plot was foiled by a Lebanese flight lieutenant who had been playing along with the Russians for the past 25 days.

Threats, Payoffs Said Used To Block Probe

Washington (AP) — An Army officer and a sergeant who once was jailed for stealing slot machine receipts said Wednesday death threats and payoffs helped muzzle a probe into charges of looting servicemen's clubs.

Lt. Col. William L. George, who said he experienced three months of anonymous threats in 1965, testified Maj. Gen. William A. Cunningham III, then commander of the 24th Infantry Division, refused repeated requests to broaden the scope of the probe despite evidence hundreds of thousands of dollars were being stolen.

Former S. Sgt. Edward Jones, a club manager sentenced to a year at hard labor on charges brought by George, said it was common knowledge in 24th Division clubs in Germany that sergeants bribed "higher-ups" to stifle interference.

Too Nervous

George said he was too nervous to read his statement, and it was read for him by another officer. Jones testified in a closed session after senators agreed to shield him from publicity. They released his testimony.

Both men said they had insufficient evidence to prove their allegations conclusively.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., presiding at hearings by the Senate investigations subcommittee, said most of the sergeants named in testimony about irregularities in 24th Division clubs had a remarkable facility for showing up together "where the action was."

He said many of the same noncoms were transferred together and in succession to Augsburg, Germany, Ft. Benning, Ga., and Vietnam, and that at each station they helped manage enlisted men's clubs.

$8,000 A Week

Jones testified ranking sergeants of the 24th Division raked in more than $8,000 weekly from slot machine receipts.

He named one of the men who received stolen money as Sgt. William Edwards, a club system official, and said:

"Whoever Edwards gave the money to must have gotten a tremendous amount, or Edwards got it all himself. But we were told this went to higherups, and, like I say, the name of Gen. Cunningham was mentioned, and also Sgt. Maj. William Woolridge. And they did say statements like 'very, very high.' Who they were trying to say this was, I don't know."

Jones said the persons who made the statements were club sergeants, including several named in testimony Tuesday as members of a conspiracy involved in a detailed plot to steal club money.

Part In Skimming Racket Is Denied

Atlanta (UPI) — Retired Maj. Gen. William A. Cunningham III denied Wednesday testimony given at a Washington hearing linking him with an alleged slot machine "skimming" racket at overseas U.S. Army service clubs.

The silvery-haired Cunningham, 58, currently holds a well-paying job with the state of Georgia, earning $17,500 as executive director of the Lake Lanier Islands Development Authority. He oversees a state budget of $208,194 and the agency also receives some federal funds.

Pike Angered Over Secrecy

Washington (AP) — A sharp exchange over access to weapons information erupted Wednesday during the opening of House debate on a $21.35 billion defense bill.

Rep. Otis G. Pike of New York, ninth-ranking Democrat in the Armed Services Committee, complained that he didn't know until a barroom conversation in California about a recent test failure of the giant C5A aircraft.

Committee Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.D., said he had been apprised of the failure, the second since July.

"Mr. Chairman, don't you think all the members of the committee should be apprised of it?" Pike asked.

"I don't know whether I do now after hearing the gentleman talk," said Rivers.

During a shouting exchange, Pike complained about Rivers' criticism of military spending opponents who deal in generalities.

"This is why we deal in generalities and we do not deal in specifics," said Pike, referring to the test failure incident.

"The main problem in this country is not something called the military-industrial complex," said Pike. "It's something called secrecy."

Pike said, in response to River's queries, that he was speaking of secrecy among military officers, not on the committee.

Pike, one of five committee members spearheading an attempt to trim the spending bill, told reporters he heard of last week's test failure while attending a symposium of the Society of Experimental Test Pilots in Los Angeles.

Pentagon 'Fact Sheet'

The Pentagon distributed a "fact sheet" which said that in a static ground test on July 13 there was a failure of the rear beam of the C5A wing — a part of the wing structure.

Rivers said he is confident critics' efforts to cut $2.2 billion from the big authorization bill will be rejected by the House.

The measure, which must be followed by an appropriation bill, authorizes funds for the Safeguard antimissile system as well as planes, ships, tanks and other military hardware.

Nixon Socializes With FBI Chief

Washington (AP) — President Nixon went to the home of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover Wednesday night for a private dinner and what was described as "a social evening."

The stag event at the Northwest Washington home of the chief of the FBI also was attended by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and John Ehrlichman, counsel to the President.

Miniskirted Blonde Excused From Jury

Chicago (UPI) — A federal judge excused a miniskirted blonde from the jury in the Chicago convention riot trial Wednesday because she said she had been influenced by a scribbled letter warning, "You are being watched . . . The Black Panthers."

The dismissal of Kristi A. King, 23, and the retention of another juror who received a similar letter triggered a new deluge of objections and motions by irate defense attorneys.

District Judge Julius J. Hoffman denied the defense moves and the jury heard testimony that defendant Abbott "Abbie" Hoffman threatened in 1968 to "tear up this town and the Democratic National Convention."

David E. Stahl, administrative assistant to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, said Hoffman also suggested, "Just give us $100,000 and we'll leave town."

Stahl was the second prosecution witness to testify in the trial of eight antiwar demonstration leaders on charges of conspiring to incite riots in Chicago during the convention.

Miss King, who wore a plaid miniskirt into the jury box, was excused from the panel of 10 women and two men over the strenuous objections of defense attorney William Kunstler and replaced by Kay S. Richards, 22, an alternate.

Rebel Rights Lawyer Is Forced To Resign

The New York Times

Washington — A leader of the rebellious group of civil rights attorneys in the Justice Department has been forced to resign after criticizing in open court an action by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Gary J. Greenberg of New York, a 27-year-old graduate of the Harvard Law School, submitted his resignation Wednesday under pressure from Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard.

Although the department declined to comment on the development, it was learned that the young lawyer's departure is linked to his statement Sept. 10 to the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in which he said Mitchell's action in delaying desegregation in 30 Mississippi counties was indefensible.

In arguments before the court in St. Louis, Mo., Greenberg pressed for an order to speed integration in an Arkansas school district. He was asked by one of the judges if he could guarantee that if the desegregation order were granted, the attorney general would not "pull the rug out from under us" by later asking for a delay, as the department did in the Mississippi case.

Greenberg replied that he considered the action indefensible and that virtually all of the lawyers in the civil rights division agreed with him.

Leonard said Monday that there would be no reprisals against the lawyers in the civil rights division who complained to Mitchell about the Mississippi delay in a petition.

Greenberg had been a leader of the dissident group. However, when Leonard asked for his resignation, he reportedly based his action on the fact that Greenberg had criticized Mitchell's decisions in open court.

Civil Rights Unit Reported Juggled Due To Inefficiency

The New York Times

Washington—Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, said Wednesday he was replacing the agency's civil rights division because it was inefficient.

Rumsfeld announced a reassignment of some personnel Sept. 25.

The entire civil rights division turned up on the reassignment list, leading to speculation that the antipoverty agency was dropping its civil rights activity, which includes policing contracts of community action agencies and making sure that antidiscrimination guidelines are followed.

Rumsfeld said that he was conducting a housecleaning rather than abandoning civil rights.

An aide to the director put it more bluntly by describing the division as "a lousy, unfortunate failure." The aide said the division was staffed by "incompetents who cut each other's throats and stabbed each other in the back for personal gain, to the detriment of the division."

Staff workers interviewed in the division blamed one another as well as "top leadership" for the failures of the unit. The workers tended to be divided along racial lines, with one black professional charging, "white leaders double-crossed the division by their lack of sensitivity to the problems of blacks."

Comprehensive Parking Study Urged

Saying that provision for parking is a municipal function, City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger Wednesday recommended that the city undertake a comprehensive parking study.

Holsinger said the study, which could be completed in about nine months at a cost of $40,000, would serve as a guide on future parking needs.

Addressing members of the Mayor's Parking Committee, Holsinger said such a study should not delay planning for the proposed parking garage in the downtown block known as the Kresge block. He said that site is a logical location for such a garage.

"No real study has ever been made other than an inventory of parking facilities," he said. "The inventory tells us what we have, but not how effective it is."

He said a parking study would specifically define parking problems in the downtown area.

And he urged that a study include reviews of parking situations in shopping areas in Havelock, University Place, Bethany and College View.

"If one accepts the premise that parking is a municipal function the same as the provision for water, sewer, streets, police, traffic," Holsinger said, "then the city must have some guidelines on which to rely in the development of a parking program."

He also pointed out that a parking study would aid in making feasibility analyses of parking garages proposed in the future.

Finance Director James Mallon, noting that the present budget does not include funds for such a study, said money would have to be transferred from other accounts.

Planning Director Douglas Brogden recommended that a study of the city be undertaken by a land economics specialist. He said such a study would be essential as a companion to a parking study.

Brogden explained that an economics study would include a review future shopping and work areas in the city, as well as a study of the amount of expected future activity by service-oriented businesses.

Hale Urges City To Quickly Solve Question Of Providing Retail Space

Lincoln City Councilman Merle Hale Wednesday urged that the city find out quickly whether or not it can provide retail space in a municipal parking garage.

Saying that the issue is now unsettled, Hale told members of the Mayor's Parking Committee that it is "essential that the city know what it can and cannot do."

The city has been requested by the Lincoln Center Development Association (LCDA) to build a multimillion-dollar parking garage with two levels of retail space and five levels of parking in the block bounded by N, O, 11th and 12th Sts.

Parking committee members are now trying to determine whether the garage should be built by public or private interests and studying designs for the building.

Suit Suggested

"Maybe we should start a friendly suit next week," Hale said after hearing City Finance Director James Mallon say the issue would have to be settled in the courts.

Mallon said the city's bond attorney has advised the city to test the retail space question in the courts if the city intends to issue a bond to finance the parking garage.

State legislation permits cities to issue bonds to construct municipal parking facilities, paying off the debt with revenues received.

'Senseless'

LCDA President John Campbell contended that it would be senseless to continue discussion about the garage as a city project if the city would be prohibited from leasing space to retailers.

Campbell said that a parking garage without retail space would result in a "sterile block that destroys the concept of downtown parking."

City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger predicted that there will always be a shortage of parking in the downtown area if the city relies on private industry to provide that parking.

Holsinger said that in the future there would be very little on-street parking in the downtown area because of increases in traffic volumes.

Plan Suggested

Jerry Maddox of Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan suggested a private firm build the garage, complete with retail stores, and then lease either all or most of the parking spaces to the city on the basis of a long-term contract.

Several committee members thought the idea might gain better public acceptance since the city would not be providing retail space.

The city legal department was asked to prepare an opinion on whether the city can enter into such a contract for parking spaces.

David City Man Faces Charge In Airport Burglary

A David City man was charged in Lancaster County Court Wednesday with burglary in connection with a break-in at the restaurant at the municipal airport.

Robert L. Cardwell, 34, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to District Court. Bond was set at $3,500.

According to Lincoln police, Cardwell was arrested at the airport early Wednesday.

Energy Enterprises Lighting Low Bidder

Energy Enterprises was the apparent low bidder Wednesday at $9,915 for arterial lighting along Sheridan Blvd. from South to Van Dorn Sts.

Pioneer Paving Co. was the apparent low bidder at $3,355.50 for a paving district in Country Club Blvd. from Calvert St. north 150 feet. The company also had the only bid at $440 on a graveling district in 49th St. from Knox to Judson.

Experts Test Moon Dust For Life

Mountain View, Calif. (UPI) — Working in an operating room atmosphere, scientists sprayed moon dust on 3,240 food-filled dishes Wednesday to see if some form of life exists off the Earth.

The white-smocked researchers, working in sterilized facilities, scooped tiny portions of the black dust into a gas-operated distributor which spread the lunar soil onto petri dishes containing nine different nutrients.

Their purpose was to induce any living organisms in the moon dust to grow.

The experiment was one of four started at NASA's Ames Research Center with rocks and dust brought back from the moon by the Apollo 11 astronauts.

The others sought to determine if the lunar materials contained the building blocks of life, to study the changes caused in lunar soil by the impact of meteorites and to measure the quantity of radioactive materials produced by bombardment of the moon's surface by cosmic rays.

Kiesinger's Offer Seems Too Late

©The New York Times

Bonn — Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger disclosed Wednesday night that he had made a last-minute offer to share the reins of government with the tiny Free Democratic Party, which has been a partner in the move to drive his Christian Democrats from power.

It appeared, however, that Kiesingers bid would fail as the Free Democrats moved to form a coalition with the Social Democratic Party, led by Foreign Minister Willy Brandt, who would then become chancellor.

The maneuvering continued Wednesday in the aftermath of Sunday's national election, which gave no one party a majority of seats in the Bundestag, or lower house of parliament. Together, any two of the major parties could command a majority, and Brandt moved swiftly to abandon his junior-partner role in the present coalition with Kiesinger.

Kiesinger made his proposal, which he described as "a comprehensive program," during a courtesy call by Walter Scheel Tuesday evening after the 50-year-old liberal had won approval from his Free Democratic Party leadership to discuss a coalition with the Social Democrats.

Later in the evening Scheel reached virtually full agreement with Brandt on domestic policies. Wednesday night the two leaders and their 12 fellow negotiators reached similar harmony on foreign policy.

Kiesinger said he had appealed to the Free Democrats to exercise "practical reason" and oppose the "attempt to distort the will of the electorate through formation of a mini-left government" with only a majority of 12 in parliament.

He referred to the fact that his party led the balloting with 46.1%, as against 42.7% for the Social Democrats.

During an intermission in his talks with the Social Democrats, Scheel told newsmen his party's new Bundestag delegation of 30 deputies would weigh the Kiesinger bid at a meeting Friday.

But top Free Democrats and Social Democrats were confident that Scheel could keep his conservative-leaning colleagues in line in the final, critical phase.

$450,000 Suit Filed By Parents Of Injured Girl

Kearney (AP) — A damage suit asking $450,000 has been filed by the parents of a Lexington girl hurt June 20 in a car-train accident at Gibbon which killed another girl and injured several other persons.

The action was filed in Buffalo County District Court by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Rath, Lexington, who said their daughter, Beverly, 17, suffered permanent physical disability and is unable to speak or move.

Defendants in the suit are the car's driver, Dennis Maynard, 20, Kearney; his father, Wayne Maynard; and the Union Pacific Railroad.

Killed in the collision was Leslie Aspen, 16, Kearney. The accident occurred when a car driven eastbound on U.S. 30 by young Maynard and an eastbound Union Pacific Railroad train collided at Gibbon.

Huge Supersonic Concorde's Test Flight Banishes Doubts

Toulouse, France (AP) — "Mellower than you can imagine."

That was how the chief test pilot described the first faster-than-sound flight Wednesday of the British-French Concorde supersonic transport—SST.

The plane flew at a speed of 714 miles an hour — Mach 1.05 — at an altitude of 35,000 feet over France.

With its huge delta wings dipping, its needle nose pointing skyward, the Concorde went airborne from Sud Aviation's airport and swept about in a north-northwest direction.

Thirty-nine minutes later, the craft, on its 45th test flight, pierced the sound barrier and cruised for nine minutes at Mach 1.05.

Concorde was propelled by the full power of its two outboard engines and partial power of its two inboard engines.

Turcat said the plane did everything expected of it, especially during abrupt power drops.

"Any uncertainties we may have had about the plane have vanished," he said. "Today's flight is dazzling proof of Concorde's qualities."

Senators Scold Oil Man

Washington (UPI) — An oil company executive's charge that Congress would be guilty of a breach of faith if it cut the oil depletion allowance drew a sharp rebuke Wednesday from two senators.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., 73, a supporter of the 27.5% depletion allowance throughout his 21 years in the Senate, objected when George V. Myers, executive vice president of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, made the charge before the Senate Finance Committee.

"Many billions of dollars have been invested in the oil business in good faith reliance on the tax incentives that have been provided in the tax law for over a half century," Myers said. "To arbitrarily reduce the percentage depletion on past discoveries at this time would raise a question of the government's good faith."

"Breach of faith?" interrupted Anderson. "Sen. (John J.) Williams has been pushing for a cut in depletion allowance for years and years."

Anderson's point was that investors in the oil industry have always known that the depletion allowance has been under attack and made their investments with that knowledge.

Williams asked, "Was it a brech of faith when Congress gave you the depletion allowance 43 years ago? Is it a breach of faith for Congress to increase corporation taxes, or the capital gains tax or income taxes?"

Symphony Guild Plans "Import Fair"

It could be that your plans for the autumn and winter do not include traveling abroad. Maybe this isn't the year you will go to Italy, or Germany, or Switzerland, and just, maybe you have postponed touring the Scandinavian countries until next year, or the year after — or even the year after that. But then there always is the possibility that if one can't go to Europe, Europe will knock at his own front door.

That is what is happening on Tuesday evening, Oct. 14, when Europe and the Scandinavian countries will be greeting you at the Lincoln Symphony Guild's second 'Import Fair' which is to be held at Hovland Swanson's.

The Import Fair is an international evening complete with foods, music and especially selected imports and it has been planned by the Symphony Guild to open the 1969-70 season of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra. The proceeds from the Fair, however, will be added to the Symphony Guild's contribution to the Lincoln Symphony orchestra.

Each foreign display will have a hostess who will be dressed in the authentic costume of the country represented, and also wearing European costumes will be the hostesses who will circulate among the guests.

Germany, however, will have a personal representative in the person of Claus Born of the German National Tourist Bureau which is located in Chicago.

Serving as chairman for the Fair is Mrs. James E. McGrew, and the committee members include Mrs. Stanley E. Sands, Mrs. Theodore Andros, foods: Mrs. Louis T. Shackleford, invitations; Mrs. Virgil Wiesner, publicity; Mrs. James E. Kamas, music; Mrs. Irwin Chesen, advisor and LeRoi Schoonover, decorations.

The committee suggests 'after-five' frocks for the ladies, but one may wear what one chooses.

Just in case the masculine element has the idea that the Import Fair strictly is for the fair sex, perish the thought. There will be color, excitement, and enough food and music to keep all of the men happy.

In the picture we find Mr. Schoonover surrounded by some of the fascinating art work he plans to use throughout the store on that very special Tuesday evening.

Prairie Valley Southbrook Summit South Hills

suburbia

Although every Nebraskan, especially those in Lincoln, has a more than mild case of football fever this fall, the residents of suburbia haven't completely given in to the disease. Of course they are attending the games and reading the sports columns and listening to radio and television for any news about the Cornhusker team, but they also have managed to do some traveling, entertain out-of-town guests and attend family get togethers. In fact, there is so much news that we're going to begin telling it right now.

The social calendar for Mr. and Mrs. Vince Kess was filled to overflowing last weekend and all of the activity centered on their weekend houseguests. Mrs. Kess' aunt, Mrs. Harold Grismer and Mr. Grismer arrived on Saturday from El Cajon, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Grismer had barely unpacked their bags when Mrs. Kess' aunt, Mrs. Ailene Burke of Des Moines, Iowa, and her cousin, Mrs. Fred Nellor, of Beemer, arrived to join the family circle.

Then, on Sunday, more names were added to the family roll call when Mrs. Kess' brother, Gerald Galbraith, and her nephew, Harry J. Galbraith, arrived from Kearney to greet the California visitors. It was a busy and most enjoyable weekend for Mr. and Mrs. Grismer who left on Monday.

Last weekend was a busy family gathering time for several suburban residents. The Southbrook Summit family of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Muhle and children, Jerry and Sandra, motored to Schuyler Sunday for a get-together of Mr. Muhle's family. Host and hostess for the family dinner were Mr. Muhle's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Muhle. The dinner really was a birthday party and the incentives for the festivities were the members of the Muhle family who celebrated their birthday anniversaries in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Carel L. Stith returned to their Southbrook Summit home from Houston, Tex., Wednesday afternoon after a long weekend visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carel Stith, Jr. The incentive for their visit was threefold. They not only returned their two year-old grandson Matt, who had been their houseguest for several weeks, to his home; but they also met their newest grandson, Christopher John, who was born August 3, and they attended the Houston Oilers and Miami Dolphins game on Sunday, Sept. 28.

The football game Sunday was especially interesting for Mr. and Mrs. Stith because their son, Carel Stith, Jr., of former Cornhusker star, plays left tackle on the Houston team. Needless to say, there was considerable celebration after the Oilers' victory over the Dolphins.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bennett and daughter, Nancy, have been entertaining Mr. Bennett's mother, Mrs. W. M. Bennett of Calhoun, Ga., as a guest at their Southbrook Summit home. Mrs. Bennett arrived on Sept. 13, and will be returning to Georgia on Saturday, Oct. 4.

The Saturday, Oct. 4, social calendars of young Jill and J. Hoffman, children of South Hills residents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hoffman, are filled with plans for attending a birthday party and picnic. The festivities are planned to observe Miss Lori Luff's seventh birthday anniversary.

The party will being at 10:30 o'clock when Miss Luff's friends gather at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marlen Luff. Party guests will include Christy and Debbie Kuhn, Tony and Chan Waybright, Joey Hendricks, Robin Hamilton, Angie Miller, Miss Luff's brother Link, and of course, Jill and J. Hoffman.

Talk Around The Town

If we can believe the weather man the 'blue' of "October's bright blue weather" will change to the "blues". Rain — that's what the man said. But then, he has been wrong before.

There is a general exodus to Bloomington, Minn., and the Minnesota-Nebraska game, this late week, but happily there are those who are staying in town.

* * *

The Terpsichorean Dancing Club may have some absentees when the members dine and dance at Hotel Lincoln on Saturday evening, but at least roll call will be answered by one new member couple — Mr. and Mrs. Vance James.

The party theme, so we are told, is "Fall Flame", and the party planners are Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Wendelin.

* * *

The Fifty Fifty Club hasn't opened its dinner-dance season yet, but its dinner and bridge activity is something else again.

The Fifty Fifty members will have their first dinner and bridge party of the season when they meet next Tuesday evening in the Lancaster Room at Hotel Cornhusker. "Golden Harvest" will be the theme for the party for which Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Aaron of Crete will be host and hostess.

The Fifty Fifty Club has a new president couple this season — Mr. and Mrs. Butler Isaman.

Christmas Is Early For Volunteers

The past few weeks have been busy ones for the members of the Life Insurance Women of Lincoln, who have spent most of their spare moments buying and packaging Christmas gifts.

The gifts — all small but practical items — will go to U.S. servicemen in Vietnam and the project is officially titled, Operation Shop Early, under the sponsorship of the American Red Cross.

An assembly line packaging and packing session was held Monday when the club members gathered in the basement of the Midwest Life Insurance Company.

NU Newcomers Honored At Coffees

An opportunity to become acquainted with new residents in Lincoln — all wives of new University of Nebraska faculty members —is being provided this week by the NU Faculty Wives Newcomers Club, which is sponsoring a series of informal coffees.

The series opened Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Richard Bradley. Included among those attending were, seated from the left, newcomers Mrs. Gordon Vidmar, Mrs. Peter Mayeux, Mrs. Gordon Greene, Mrs. Walter M. Blackledge and Mrs. John Brasch, with Merk Hobson. Standing (left) Mrs. Robert Allen and Mrs. James Titterington.

Tuesday evening, Mrs. John Moran was a coffee hostess; Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Miles Tommeraasen; and entertaining Thursday evening will be Mrs. R. G. Guilford.

Meetings Cancelled

The class in sewing and knitting of the Lincoln Woman's Club, planned for Thursday morning, as well as the afternoon art class on Thursday, have been cancelled for this week.

They will be held instead on Thursday, Oct. 9.

Activities for the club this week will include a meeting of the board of trustees at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning, at the club house.

Meeting at 1 o'clock, Friday afternoon, at the club house, will be the members of the bridge department.

Poets To Meet

The annual fall "retreat" of the Midwest Federation of Chaparral Poets will be held Saturday and Sunday, at the Fort Kearney Hotel, in Kearney. The meeting is a statewide event.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead—two of spades.

When you are a defender, it is generally best not to paint a false picture of your hand, even though your intention is to try to fool declarer and cause him to misplay the hand.

More often than not, when you misrepresent your hand, you wind up fooling partner instead of declarer and your well-intentioned efforts turn out to be self-defeating.

But there are times when you can afford to try to fool declarer because, even though your partner is misled, it will not affect him adversely because he is out of the picture anyhow. In these cases you concentrate on fooling declarer and hope he will fall victim to your deception.

Here is an excellent example of the art. South is in three no-trump and West leads the deuce of spades. Declarer follows low from dummy, hoping West has the J-10, but East wins with the jack and cashes the A-K.

It would seem to be automatic for East to cash his fourth spade, but if he is really on his toes he will shift to the ten of diamonds at trick four!

Now put yourself in declarer's shoes and try to figure out how you would play the hand from here on. You would naturally assume that West has the missing spade and you would shape your play accordingly.

After winning the diamond with the queen you would lead a club to the ace and a low club back. When West followed low you would finesse the jack in order to assure the contract, since East theoretically could not harm you if he showed up with the queen of clubs.

But when East did produce the queen, and also surprisingly produce the seven of spades to put you down one, you would of course take your hat off to him and say: "Nice play."

A preview of the first symphony concert on Oct. 14, will be given.

National Award To Lincoln Woman

It was a double honor on Wednesday when the International La Sertoma "Woman Of The Year" award was presented to Mrs. Fred Nevels, Jr., of Lincoln, (center), the nominee for the annual award of the Lincoln La Sertoma Club members who were proud that it was their candidate who had been selected for national recognition.

The award was presented by Mrs. Norman Leuthauser (at right), past president of the Lincoln Club, and Mrs. Ed Healy (left), chairman of the club's International Awards committee.

A member of the President's commission on Women in Community Service, and in 1968 honored as one of three most outstanding Catholic Women in the nation, the international organization selected Mrs. Nevels as best fulfilling the La Sertoma theme, "Involvement is the key—to think Less of Me and More of Thee."

The recipient of numerous honors and awards for her contributions to her community and church, Mrs. Nevel is an alumna of the University of Nebraska and the wife of Fred Nevels, Jr., an employee of the Lincoln Post Office.

A busy homemaker (she is one of Pillsbury "Bake-Off" winners) she is the mother of five children: two married daughters, one of whom serves as a counselor in St. Louis the other a psychiatric social worker in St. Louis (Mrs. Nevels' hometown); a married son who is a student at the University of Nebraska; a son in high school; and a daughter in elementary school.

An active member of the Lincoln YWCA board, and a former member of the Mayor's Council on Human Relations, Mrs. Nevels also finds time to serve as director of recruiting and screening for Women in Community Service, a group devoted to assistance in training teen-age girls.

Her state-wide activities include the Governor's Council on Status of Women, the state Commission on Children and Youth, and the Committee on Juvenile Problems and Employment. In 1967, she received the Jay-Husker Girl Scout award for her contributions to that organization, and was named the Lancaster County "Citizen of the Week."

Attending the award presentation Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Lewis Harris were Mrs. Ralph Louis of Topeka, Kan., chairman of the board of International La Sertoma, and the La Sertoma District governor, Mrs. Jim Kamas.

Fortnightly Club Luncheon

Mrs. Thomas C. Woods, Jr., will be hostess to the members of the Fortnightly Club next Tuesday at the Lincoln Country Club. The group will meet for a 12:30 o'clock luncheon and program.

ABBY: find another girl

DEAR ABBY: I am a transplanted Texan, having lived most of my life in Colorado. I like Texas, and wouldn't mind spending the rest of my life here, but I work for a company with offices spread all over the country and I have no guarantee that I won't be transferred.

I met a very nice girl here and the subject of marriage came up. She said she would marry me tomorrow IF (and here is where the problem comes in) I promised her we would never move out of TEXAS.

ABBY, I told her I couldn't make her that kind of promise on account of my job, and she said, yes, I could. I could refuse to leave Texas, or take a job with another company if they tried to transfer me.

I've got a lot of seniority built up with this company, and I sure wouldn't want to lose it, but I really do like this little girl and don't know what to do. What do you say?

JIMMY

DEAR JIMMY: I say keep looking. And don't stop until you find a girl who will gladly go whither thou goest.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

France claimed it and so we named it "Albert's Royal French Dressing." Not just French, but Royal French. Because it tastes of Parisian spice and provincial honey. Zesty enough for lettuce and sweet enough for fruit. Albert's Royal French Dressing. Something new and unusual with a little French accent.

Saigon Wants More U.S. Aid As GIs Pull Out

The New York Times

Washington — Informed South Vietnamese sources here said Saigon has started negotiating with Washington for an increase in economic and military assistance as American troops are withdrawn from Vietnam.

The sources said the consultations had not reached a stage where the size of the increase could be determined, although they have been going on "for some time."

U.S. officials said President Nguyen Van Thieu wanted an understanding about the amount of aid to be given the Saigon government as American troops are replaced by South Vietnamese forces.

Proof Needed

Congressional sources doubted that Congress would appropriate additional funds unless the Nixon administration could prove a clearcut relationship between the troop withdrawal and Saigon's need for greater assistance.

Thieu publicly signaled his desire for more military and financial aid last weekend when he told American newsmen:

"I do think it is very reasonable to replace the bulk of your infantry if you provide us enough equipment, funds and material for strenghtening and modernizing Vietnamese troops."

He added, "The ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) is ready to replace the U.S. troops within a timetable to be decided between the two governments, provided the U.S. government furnishes us with enough equipment, material, funds, finance and enough time — reasonable time — for recruiting and training."

Economic Aid Totals

American economical aid to South Vietnam was $558.1 million in fiscal 1968, an estimated $447.1 million in fiscal 1969, and is proposed to be $599.4 million in fiscal 1970.

The value of U.S. military assistance to South Vietnam during the same periods has not been released to the public, the Pentagon said.

American officials here said Thieu wanted an agreement that would allow the South Vietnamese Army to increase its firepower as the American Army withdrew its manpower. One official acknowledged that "this is a costly proposition."

South Vietnamese sources here, who are in a position to interpret Thieu's recent comments for an American audience, said the problem was not this year or next, but in the post-1970 period.

The sources said the Saigon government plans to increase its armed forces by 100,000 men during 1970, bringing the total to about one million men. They said this increase would cause a "very, very burden" on the already strained government budget.

Laos War Character Is Changed

©The New York Times

By T. D. ALLMAN

Vientiane — As a result of a general increase in U.S. bombing and logistical support in Laos, following Communist gains earlier this year, many factors governing the Laotian conflict have been altered.

What was essentially a conventional war for control of teritory has become a hit-and-run war of attrition.

The main U.S. targets now, according to sources in both the Laotian government and the Pathet Lao rebels, are the rebel economy and social fabric.

Bombing Loosened

The restraints on the United States in bombing Laotian targets have been significantly relaxed over the last six months. The daily total of bombing sorties has risen to the hundreds, with U.S. jets often refueling over Laos rather than returning to their Thai or South Vietnamese bases as they continue their round-the-clock search for targets.

According to Laotian sources, the object now "is to hit the enemy wherever he is" and to allow no sanctuary.

Until early this spring, when North Vietnamese troops began a series of advances in northsast Laos, the Laotian was was a strictly limited contest between Laotian forces, backed by the United States, and the Pathet Lao, supported by the North Vietnamese. There was a relatively large but static number of North Vietnamese troops in Laos, according to U.S. intelligence estimates, totaling about 48,000 men. Intensive but selective bombing of Pathet Lao territory was aimed at North Vietnamese supply routes—both to South Vietnam and to the Laotian front — and at concentrations of enemy troops. Civilian population centers and farmland were largely spared.

Problems Created

This almost classic limited war, however, created serious problems for the United States and the Laotian government this year. The Communists, within the limited-war contact, were able to deal the government of Prince Souvanna Phouma several serious defeats.

Since both sides concede that territorial control would have a bearing on the makeup of a postwar Laotian coalition government, the rebel gains increased the likelihood that the United States and the Laotian government might ultimately be forced to make political concessions as part of an eventual Laotian peace settlement.

The war has also become increasingly a war for control of populations rather than control of territory. With U.S. bombers able to destroy, almost at will, any given town, bridge, road or concentration of enemy soldiers or civilians, control of specific territory has become increasingly less important.

Bombing Effective

"So long as the United States bombing continues at its new level," a European diplomat said here this week, "so-called Communist territory is little but a shooting range. They find it difficult to move troops and supplies, agricultural production drops, the civilian populations become upset. They lose their tax and labor base. That is why the Pathet Lao continue to make a cessation of bombing the prerequisitie of any peace talks."

Refugees invariably cite two main reasons for their willingness to leave their homes and resettle in new areas: the bombing and the fact that the Pathet Lao rebels force every able-bodied man and woman to work as much as a month a year carrying supplies and arms toward the front.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS
AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

Evidence Rules Review Unit Named

The Nebraska Supreme Court Wednesday appointed an eight-member committee to review the rules of evidence used in the state courts.

Judge Elmer M. Scheele of Lincoln was chairman of the new Committee on Practice and Procedure.

Other members appointed were Prof. David Dow of Lincoln, Prof. John E. North of Omaha, Judge John C. Burke of Omaha, Judge Robert L. Flory of Fremont, John C. Mitchell of Omaha, Warren K. Urbom of Lincoln and Lyle E. Strom of Omaha.

In establishing the committee, the Supreme Court said that "sound and efficient administration of justice would indicate the necessity of a modernization and simplication of antiquated and complicated rules of evidence now governing the trial of both civil and criminal cases in the various courts in the State of Nebraska."

The court said the new committee will serve as successor to the one which modernized and simplified Nebraska jury instructions.

Czechs Receive Finns' President

Prague (AP) — President Urho Kekkonen of Finland arrived in Czechoslovakia Wednesday on a state visit.

Kekkonen came here on the last leg of a journey through three Soviet bloc countries — Romania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia — during which he has been reported offering Helsinki as the site of a Communist-proposed all-European security conference.

STANLEY B. HOSS JR.

FBI No Longer Thinks Escapee Is In This Area

The FBI said Wednesday it no longer has special cause to believe that Stanley Barton Hoss Jr., an escapee last seen holding a woman and her child as hostages, is in this area.

Police had said Tuesday night that they had a report Hoss was headed for Grand Island. FBI sources said that when the report was traced it was discovered to have little or no foundation.

The escapee is still considered very dangerous, the FBI said, and a spokesman indicated that he could be in this area despite the fact that the other report turned out to be less firm than first believed.

Hoss is described as a white male, 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighing 179 pounds, with brown hair and green eyes and a tatoo on the left forearm and the chest.

Proud Urges Vast Governmental Changes

State Sen. Richard F. Proud of Omaha has proposed constitutional changes designed to insulate public officials from the influence of special interest groups.

The plan has been set out in an essay distributed by Proud and titled, "American Manifesto."

Sen. Proud proposes that elected public officials — administrative, legislative and judicial — divest themselves of any personal financial interest and outside employment upon taking office.

At the same time, the public officials should be paid well for their services, and hold office until voted out by the people.

Sen. Proud also would outlaw contributions to he election campaigns of political candidates, and would provide for publicizing of a candidate's qualifications at taxpayer expense. Proud also advocates a reduction in the number of elected office holders so the public could know them better.

"The basic principle is that no government can be just which is led by officials who protect their own financial interests and who are elected to office through the efforts of special interests," Proud's essay says.

"We must create an atmosphere where the people have a reasonble chance of securing justice and where, through their vote, retain the power to rid themselves of representatives who do not render justice.

Proud, an attorney employe by Mutual of Omaha, has served six years in the Legislature. He previously was a lobbyist.

At the 1969 legislative session, he unsuccessfully proposed a constitutional amendment which would have reduced from 50 to 25 the maximum size of the Legislature and would have required senators to free themselves of private financial interests.

AFL-CIO Chiefs Vote To Oust Dissident Union

Atlantic City, N.J. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders voted Wednesday to kick the International Chemical Workers Union out of the labor federation for joining Walter Reuther's Alliance for Labor Action.

It was learned that the 29-man AFL-CIO executive council headed by federation President George Meany voted unanimously to expel the 110,000-member Chemical Workers for joining a "hostile" labor group.

The council's action, which must be voted on by the AFL-CIO convention opening Thursday, will widen organized labor's worst split in more than 30 years.

Quit After Quarrel

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union, quit the AFL-CIO last year after a long quarrel in which he accused Meany of stagnant leadership.

Reuther then formed the Alliance for Labor Action with his 1.6 million-member union and the 1.9 million-member Teamsters Union, which was expelled from the AFL-CIO on corruption charges 12 years ago.

Meany, the only president in the AFL-CIO's 14-year history, has denounced the alliance as a competitive labor federation and warned that any AFL-CIO unions that join it face expulsion.

The Chemical Workers is the only one of the federation's 122 unions to join the alliance.

The decision of the AFL-CIO's ruling executive council to expel the Chemical Workers will be read to some 1,000 delegates at the opening of the convention Thursday, and they are expected to vote on it Friday.

Similar To 1935

The action was reminiscent of the formation of the Congress of Industrial Organizations by the late Mine Workers President John L. Lewis in a split with the American Federation of Labor at a convention here in 1935.

The old CIO and AFL merged in 1955 after 20 years of labor strife.

"This is history repeating itself," Meany said in a recent interview of Reuther's attempt to lead a rival labor faction out of the 13.6 million-member AFL-CIO.

High officials of the AFL-CIO have said several other unions have been considering joining the alliance headed by Reuther and acting Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons.

HOW MANY FLOORS UP?

City Building Inspector Larry Spahn looks toward the ceiling of the County-City Building after viewing a new sign which is designed to direct citizens to his office. Spahn, however, was quick to point out that his office is down the corridor—and on the same floor. Other offices in the same corridor failed to rate a sign. Heating, plumbing and electrical inspectors and the water and sanitary sewer departments are located in the same corridor. New direction signs were installed in the building Wednesday. (Star Photo)

Border Countermove By Mexicans Is Flop

By United Press International

"Operation Dignity," Mexico's counteroffensive to "Operation Intercept," the U.S. government's war on marijuana smuggling, flopped Wednesday.

Dignity's sponsors had envisioned thousands of volunteers at border crossing stations from Texas to California dissuading Mexicans from entering the U.S. to shop or work in retaliation for Intercept, which has severely hurt the economy of northern Mexico, particularly in the border towns that cater to U.S. visitors.

But only about 100 sign-carrying volunteers turned out at Tijuana, the busiest border crossing between the two countries. They urged persons waiting to cross the border to remain in Mexico but their pleas went unheeded.

Since Intercept, which has brought U.S.-Mexico relations to their lowest ebb in years, went into effect Sept. 21 with time-consuming searches of all persons and cars, traffic at the border has dwndled as Americans stayed home rather than wait hours to get back into their homeland.

To retaliate, the Mexican Confederation of National Chambers of Commerce planned Operation Dignity starting Wednesday. However, it received virtually no support from the chambers of commerce in Mexican border towns adjoining California and Arizona.

Charles Evers To Talk

Charles Evers, the black mayor of Fayette, Miss., will speak Wednesday night, Oct. 8, at Creighton University.

Appeals Board Rejects Waiver

The Board of Zoning Appeals Wednesday denied a waiver of sideyard requirements for a proposed house at 2232 Van Dorn on the grounds that there is sufficient space to build a home meeting the zoning requirements.

Ronald Hess, an architect with the firm of Anderson and Hess, requested the waiver, saying he had been misinformed by city and county employes about the lot and had gone ahead with preparation of building plans.

The property had been subdivided in 1964 and must meet the 10 foot sideyard requirement while those lots of record recorded before November, 1953, need only to have a sideyard of 10% of the lot width.

Hess said he was led to believe that the lot in question was on record before 1953.

Mrs. Carl Kruger, who lives two houses away from the lot, appeared in opposition, saying the crowding of the house onto the lot would not be an asset to the neighborhood.

Opposition Voiced To Giving Papers Antitrust Exemption

Washington (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission, the American Newspaper Guild, the National Newspaper Association and a New England publisher testified Wednesday against the newspaper preservation act in the last day of hearings by a House subcommittee.

The House judiciary antitrust subcommittee ended its round of hearings on the bill that would allow certain newspapers to be exempt from antitrust laws.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, which has also been considering the bill, delayed any action on it for at least a week.

The bill is designed to immunize newspapers which have entered into joint operating agreements in 22 cities from antitrust prosecution. In such arrangements, competing newspapers usually combine all their business, production and circulation operations but keep separate editorial staffs and policies.

The bill, first offered in 1968 when the Justice Department filed antitrust action against the joint operating agreement in Tucson, Ariz., has split both government officials and the publishing industry.

Supporters say it is needed to preserve editorial competition in many cities; opponents charge it would freeze out new newspapers.

Truck Batteries Reported Taken

Police were investigating Wednesday the theft of batteries from three diesel trucks at John Gies Truck Sales, 2141 Cornhusker Highway.

The firm reported that loss and damage to the trucks totaled approximately $500.

Two of the batteries weighed more than 100 pounds each.

Telephone Lines To Gibraltar Cut; Pullout Is Sought

Gibraltar (UPI) — Spain cut telephone service between Gibraltar and the Spanish mainland Wednesday in another move to force Britain to withdraw from the colony. The action came on the date of a United Nations deadline for British withdrawal.

The day passed without any other incident, although some Spanish newspapers urged action, and Spanish government sources said there were still a number of ways Spain could increase pressure to force British evacuation.

The U.N. gave Britain until Wednesday to turn Gibraltar over to Spain. Spain moved a flotilla of six tiny ships into Gibraltar Bay for a symbolic showdown and Britain brought up its own ships in a stronger show of force. Nothing happened.

False Mustache Slips; Downfall Of Robbery Plan

Lubbock, Tex. (UPI) — The bank robbery might have been a success if only the would-be robber could have kept his false mustache from falling off.

The man drove into a drive-in window at the Plains National Bank Wednesday and gave teller Penny Franks a note reading, "Give me $10,000 or I'll blow you up."

Then the mustache began to fall from his lip.

The teller could not help herself. She laughed.

The robber, startled, drove off without any money.

Silver Dollar Not To Have Any Silver?

Washington (UPI) — The general counsel of the Treasury Department Wednesday urged the House Banking and Currency Committee to approve legislation authorizing minting of silverless dollar coins bearing the likeness of President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Paul W. Eggers also urged approval of the bill's other provisions authorizing a silverless half dollar and permitting the Treasury to sell to the public at more than their face value 2.9 million rare silver dollars.

Eggers said the administration wants to make dollar and half dollar coins of the same copper-nickel combination now used for dimes and quarters because it fears silver coins would be grabbed up by hoarders.

Eggers also said the mint could produce 300 million silverless dollars at a total cost of $10 million for a profit of $290 million. The cost of a 40 per cent silver coin would be $140 million. Eggers said the Treasury wants to sell off its collection of rare silver dollars at approximately their value to coin collectors, ranging up to $170 per coin. The Treasury stopped selling the coins for $1 each in 1967.

Grad Students To Be Exempt For Year

Washington (AP) — President Nixon announced Wednesday that all draft-eligible graduate students who do satisfactory work during the current school year will be safe from induction at least until next June.

Under old rules, graduate students had been permitted to delay induction only to the end of the semester. The delay now will cover the entire academic year.

The White House estimated that about 10,000 young men would be affected by the shift in policy.

Technically, a recommendation that induction of graduate students be delayed through the school year was conveyed to the Selective Service System from the National Security Council.

However, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler stated flatly that the recommendation will be followed.

Under the 1967 draft act, the NSC is required to periodically advise Selective Service on policies involving induction of professional and scientific personnel and those studying for such fields.

On May 13, Nixon had foreshadowed Wednesday's announcement by stating that he would ask the NSC to frame appropriate advice to establish a policy of freeing graduate students from the draft throughout the school year.

Hershey Outlines Lottery; Critic Unconvinced

Washington (AP) — Selective Service chief Lewis B. Hershey spelled out details of President Nixon's draft lottery plan Wednesday but failed to convince a congressional critic he has a concrete plan.

"We're right back where we started," said Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of a House subcommittee examining the President's proposal.

"People come up here and ask us for a lottery," Hebert said, "and it turns out they can't tell us what a lottery is. We have no plan as of now, no definitive plan."

Hershey Disagrees

Hershey said the President does have a plan, and if Congress will repeal the prohibition against a lottery any remaining problems can be worked out.

Hershey, once an opponent of lottery proposals, said he favors Nixon's plan because there is a public demand for it, particularly among college students, and because he said it would work.

Hershey said the lottery is not proposed as a way to defuse campus protest.

"I think we exaggerate how much we can defuse," he said. "But I'm a great optimist. I don't think things are as bad as some students advertise."

Hershey said the national lottery, in which the following year's 365 dates would be drawn and laid out as the order of callup, would be conducted in late September or early October.

Men whose 19th birthdays fall on the first dates drawn would know they faced draft the following January. Men with higher numbers would face the draft later in the year and those with the highest numbers would be likely to escape the draft.

Hebert contended the plan is misleading because, while it is aimed at limiting the draft to 19-year-olds, it would draft a number of men after they had turned 20.

OLOF PALME

Palme To Rule Sweden

Stockholm, Sweden (AP) — Olof Palme, opponent of the U.S. war in Vietnam, was named leader of Sweden's ruling Social Democratic Party Wednesday clearing the way for him to become the country's prime minister.

Palme succeeds Tage Erlander who resigned after 23 years as chief architect and administrator of the Swedish welfare state.

At 42, the American-educated Palme — Kenyon College '48 — will be the youngest chief of government in Sweden's history. His rise to power means the party's old guard hierarchy will now be opened to a new generation of radical Social Democrats.

At a news conference after his selection Wednesday Palme said he foresaw no change in the Swedish government's attitude toward the United States.

Erlander will formally resign with his cabinet on Oct. 9, and the new government headed by Palme will be formally named by King Gustav VI Adolf on Oct. 14.

Hardin Believes Quotas Unneeded

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration announced Wednesday that meat imports in 1969 would not be large enough to trigger quotas for the remainder of the year.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin estimated the year's imports, mainly beef, at 1,035 million pounds, the same as he had predicted on July 1.

Thus, under a 1964 meat import law, strict quotas will not be applied for the remainder of the year.

Constituents Sending Smut

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., complained Wednesday that he has received obscene literature in the mail—from his constituents — and it's embarrassing his secretaries.

The senders merely want him to protest to the Post Office Department, which he said he's glad to do. But Frelinghuysen asked his constituents in a letter to mail any smut material from now on in a sealed envelope marked with a warning label.

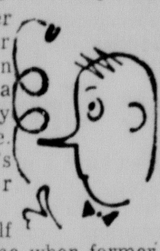
POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

"Do you know how much I'm into the banks for?" he asked. "Twenty million bucks!"

I was having a Picon punch with a former pal the other night. (Picon was once a French Army jungle juice. But now it's very upper level.)



I find myself reaching a time when former friends have made it big.

We chased two-alarm fires together. Now he's head of a big film company. The lad who drank steam beer with me owns a fleet of motels. (They chain the TVs to the floor so the guests won't steal them.)

"Twenty million clams!" he said. "Say, do you remember when . . ."

☆ ☆ ☆

Here's bright October around our scatter with the mortgage snug on top. I am not into the jug for 20 million. But I'm enough in the banker gives me a smile and a nod when I walk up to the wicket.

Bankers are fond of a man who borrows at nine per cent. A man who builds a nest he can never pay off.

Such a man is a well of contentment to the banker. A spring of cool delight.

"Think of it like rent," said my accountant. "You'd have to pay rent, wouldn't you? The interest is tax deductible."

"Deductible from what, accountant?" I said.

☆ ☆ ☆

"That boy has no head for arithmetic," said grandma. "Look at this report card."

My grandfather said I would probably grow up to be rich anyway.

"He can hire somebody to figure," said grandpa. "All he has to learn is how to lend money and charge big interest."

Grandpa was into the banks for a bundle himself at the time. He said bankers were in league with the trusts. Teddy Roosevelt was President and was against Trusts.

☆ ☆ ☆

"The Rich aren't really happy," said grandma.

My rich pals don't seem to be overly happy or dreadfully unhappy. They seem about like me. One jump ahead of the banker.

I imagine it is no harder to owe 20 million than it is to owe 20 thousand.

"Can I have my quarter allowance?" asked the Brownie before school.

"Do you think money grows on trees?" I shouted. "Ye gods!"

I think I will lend her a quarter. Charge her nine per cent. That is my prime rate today.

☆ ☆ ☆

"Due to increase in the prime rate . . ." That is the banker writing to me. "We are forced to etc." he says.

The banker does not want to raise the ante on me. He is forced to.

I borrow these days from a big bank. I rarely see the banker. He is behind a frosted glass door. (Why frosted glass, banker? Maybe he is tucking the little black satchel with samples. A ticket for Brazil in his foxy pocket.)

☆ ☆ ☆

Used to be I borrowed from the village damper — my wants were more simple. A hundred dollars was the height of my dreams.

The village banker sat in the open. Behind a mahogany picket fence. If he had been doing the form charts on the daily double. I could have seen it. Pulled out my money. Changed banks before his horse ran too slow.

But no. He sat there with a pad of ruled yellow paper and a thin sharp pencil. He wore double breasted gray suits. Solid type.

When I borrowed money, he got out my pay sheet. Checked how I'd made payents on the last loan.

☆ ☆ ☆

He advised me that money was tight. He gave me all kinds of papers to sign. He gave me the money! I mean he gave me credit for the money.

He kept the actual money in the jug. Bankers don't like to see green dollars going out the door.

"Did you ever actually see that 20 million, former pal?" I asked. "No I didn't," he said. "But I owe it. Say, do you remember when . . ."

Stocks Decline In Slow Trade

New York (AP) — The stock market crept into the losing column again Wednesday in slow trading, as many investors held fast to their funds and watched for a bottom to the six-day decline.

The Dow Jones industrial average slipped to late July levels, finishing at 806.89, off 6.20, its greatest daily point loss in three weeks.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks closed off .32 at 51.37.

Many investors waited on the sidelines, said one analyst, to see if the market reached and held at the 800 DJI level. If it does hold, he added, a new wave of buying can be expected because there is an enormous amount of cash around.

Brokers also noted that the decline appeared orderly, free of emotional selling.

Some 9.09 million shares turned over, compared with 9.18 million shares Tuesday — the slowest session in three weeks.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed off 1.9 at 283.2 — a new low for 1969 — with industrials off 2.5, rails off .9, and utilities off 1.2. The figures for both industrials and utilities also represented new yearly lows.

Declines outdistanced advances by a 2-to-1 margin, with 823 issues finishing downhill, 410 on higher ground, and 310 unchanged.

There were only three new highs for the year while 143 issues hit new bottoms this year. The highs were posted by Heinz, Lucky Strike new, and Squibb-Beech Nut preferred.

Benguet, with a 103,000-share block, topped the list of the Big Board's 20 most-active issues at 17½, off 1⅜.

Aircrafts, electronics, utilities, metals, chemicals, rails, oils, airlines, tobaccos and drugs were mostly off, while rubber issues were mostly up. Steels and motors remained mixed.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange continued to slide in very slow trading. The exchange index fell 11 cents to $26.41.

Of 1,035 issues traded, 535 declined, and 264 advanced.

Volume shrank to 2.74 million shares, representing the slowest session since Aug. 12.

Cattle Price Downtrend Continues

Omaha (AP) — Cattle prices extended their downward trend at Omaha Wednesday.

Values on corn-fed steers and heifers were off a full quarter on the opening rounds and buyers had most sales fully 50 off by the close.

The cautious and bearish attitude of buyers prevailed for a third day as wholesale prices continued to drop.

A partial explanation in the downturning wholesale trade may be a meatcutters strike in the eastern part of the nation that has put the brake on movement of red meats into the retail channels.

However, receipts at most of the major terminal markets are down from last week and from a year ago and according to the direct cattle market report cattle are not moving readily in the country, at least at the prices buyers are wanting to pay.

Best steers on the Omaha market were apparently two loads of choice and prime 1,331 lb steers at 28.75.

Some choice with end prime heifers were included in the top end of the choice price bracket at 27.00.

Butcher hogs sailed 25-50 higher, the full 50 cent upturn handed out to weights under 240 lbs.

A small consignment of around 214 lbs drew the top ticket, 26.75.

OMAHA

Hogs: 6,500; barrows and gilts 25-50 higher; 1-2 214 lb. 26.75; 1-3 200-240 lb. 26.00-26.50; 2-4 240-280 lb. 25.50-26.25; sows steady; 285-600 lb. 23.00-25.00.

Direct Cattle Sales

Omaha (AP) (USDA) — Trading direct at feedlots in the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska was slow, prices were fully 50 lower, but hardly enough done to test the market. Most packers were maintaining kills with previously purchased cattle and feeders were very reluctant to take sharply lower bids. Sales were confirmed on 1,250 steers and heifers, all prices in the meat.

Carcass weight basis — steers and heifers sold delivered to packing plants, weighted at feedlots with 3-4% pencil shrink or equivalent — choice steers 1,050-1,125 lbs. 43.50-44.00; choice heifers 900-975 lbs. 41.50 to mostly 42.00. Dressed prices based on hot weights.

OMAHA FEEDS AND HAY

Feeding tankage: 60% protein, $96.

Geologic Map Is Available

The Conservation and Survey Division at the University of Nebraska has completed a new geologic map of the State of Nebraska and is now making it available to the public.

In preparation of the map, a study of the surface or outcrop exposures of bedrock and the study of buried or subsurface bedrock by examining thousands of test borings was conducted.

A geologic bedrock map and cross sections that can be prepared from it can be used for interpretation of geologic features and history of an area. This interpretation can be used to help discover and extend mineral resource production which is so necessary for economic development.

Patrol Gets Grant For Vascar Units

The Nebraska State Patrol has received a federal grant to buy 50 Vascar speed timing devices, the patrol said Wednesday.

Col. James E. Kruger said the additional Vascar units would be distributed throughout the state among the six troop areas that comprise the traffic operations.

The new units, compliments of the U.S. Department of Transportation, will bring the total number of Vascar units being used by the patrol to 111.

Easy Livin' Tips from the Martha Gooch Kitchen

Great for Buffets. Whether you're serving cold cuts or prime rib, Martha Gooch Frozen Mac 'N Cheese is a "no work" addition for a buffet supper. Heat the casseroles in their own foil pans, then transfer the contents to a pottery or glass casserole and sprinkle with paprika and minced parsley. Or for a simple buffet, make Mac 'N Cheese the main dish.

Serve Withs. How about Confetti Tomatoes that you've fixed earlier and refrigerated? Layer slices of ripe, red tomatoes around a platter or chop plate. Then dice celery, green pepper and green onion over the tops for a confetti effect. Put out bottled dressing for those who want it. If you want a hot vegetable, cook frozen chopped spinach, then drain it, and toss it with a tablespoon each of butter and lemon juice, a dash of garlic powder.

Easy to Reheat. Leftovers can be refrigerated and reheated, covered, in oven or top of double boiler. Or try a "Sloppy Giuseppe" . . . a pasta Sloppy Joe. Brown ground beef, add the leftover Mac 'N Cheese, then blend in a little catsup and water to make the "sauciness" you want. Great for lunch.

N.Y. Jets Picked By Fans To Retain AFL Title

By LOUIS HARRIS

The rank and file of the football fans across the country predicted in an early season poll that the New York Jets will win the American Football League championship again this fall.

In the National Football League, the fans foresaw a close three-way race between the Baltimore Colts, Green Bay Packers, and Dallas Cowboys, with the Los Angeles Rams a fairly close fourth.

When asked further how they thought the Super Bowl game would come out this year, by 53-28% the fans picked the NFL champ as the winner. This would indicate that despite the Jets' victory last year, most fans think the NFL still has the stronger clubs.

A cross section of 1551 fans was asked in a special Harris Survey conducted between September 14th and 17th, just before the official league seasons opened:

"If you had to choose, which team do you think will win the AFL pro football championship this season? Here is a list of teams in the league to help you make your choice."

• AFL Pick by Fans

	Total Fans	East	Mid-west	South	West
	%	%	%	%	%
New York Jets	49	61	44	49	38
Kansas City Chiefs	10	5	17	8	10

Denver Broncos	1	..	..	..	3
Boston Patriots	1	1	2	2	..
Miami Dolphins	1	1	..	..	1
Not Sure	14	17	13	19	17

Local pride was a factor influencing fans' judgments of team prospects. Support for the Jets was overwhelming in their home area of the East. The Kansas City Chiefs picked up regional backing in the Midwest, and the Oakland Raiders in their home section of the West. But the Jets led convincingly as the pre-season pick in every region of the country.

The NFL picks showed similar variations by region of the country, indicating that some fans were making their selections as much on the basis of partisan hopes as on an objective analysis of the merits of the teams.

But in response to a similar question asked the cross section about the National Football League race, no single team dominated the field.

NFL Pick by Fans

	Total Fans	East	Mid-west	South	West
	%	%	%	%	%
Baltimore Colts	21	32	15	20	15

Atlanta Falcons	1	..	..	3	..

Philadelphia Eagles	1	1	1	..	..
New Orleans Saints	1	..	1	1	..

The Baltimore Colts run first among football fans in the East, the Green Bay Packers in the Middle West and the Dallas Cowboys in the South. The Packers, however, scored an extra point victory over the Los Angeles Rams in the latter's home territory.

Needless to say, the range of knowledge and experts among the fans varies greatly. Some took as long as 30 minutes to make their choice, offering detailed explanations and analyses of the respective merits of what they viewed as the leading clubs. Others appeared to be going on name familiarity and regional partisanship. However, the line-up of choices of the fans is not far off the consensus of the experts in their early season picks.

The survey also showed that football is still the most widely followed American sport, although baseball has picked up ground since a similar poll at the beginning of the season in April. A cross-section of sports fans was asked:

"Which of these sports do you follow?"

Follow Which Sports?

	Sept.	April
	%	%
Football	52*	52*
Baseball	50	47
Basketball	32	38
Auto racing	21	19
Bowling	20	26
Golf	18	24
Horse racing	14	17
Track	13	16
Hockey	12	17
Tennis	12	8
Soccer	6	6

*Figures add up to more than 100% because of multiple mentions.

Baseball has picked up three points in fan interest since the beginning of its season, but not enough to catch football, which still is in the lead as the baseball races reach their climax. The declines registered for basketball, bowling, and hockey can be attributed to the seasonal nature of the survey, since they are dominantly winter sports.

The rise in auto racing, however, continues the rapid rise of this sport in interest among fans. Golf, beset with the disappearance of the dominance of some of its best known names, has slipped some. Track, which reached a peak in the Olympic year of 1968, continues to fall off. Tennis appears to be on the pick-up, registering a healthy four-point gain right after the open championships at Forest Hills.

Undaunted Parker Tries Again

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Anyone who sticks his neck out and attempts to pick a couple hundred high school football games in advance isn't very smart to begin with.

If he then goes back through the results a week later and admits how he did, that shows even more stupidity. I guess I'm just a slow learner.

A year ago, during the early weeks of the season, the average ran close to the 60 per cent mark. On that basis last week's picks don't look too bad.

Parker's Picks, Page 42.

The frightening thing is that later on, the average rose 200 points. To show that same kind of increase in the next couple of weeks this year will take more luck than skill.

There were 169 games played across the state last week, and though we forecast 125 of them correctly, the 74 misses leaves an improvable .739 figure.

Thought we might be able to blame it on the unpredictable outcome of the eight-man games, but the 11-man (92 of 124 correct for .742) wasn't all that much better.

The only place I qualified as a true "expert" was when Nebraska teams were playing clubs from out of state. On every one of those I just blindly took the 'Husker team without question. Only a couple failed. Accuracy ran around the 90 per cent mark.

Three of the biggest "toss-ups" for this weekend involve the five Capital City teams. Lincoln fans will be treated to a pair of hot intra-city clashes, while Southeast faces a stiff test in fast improving Fremont on the road.

Lincoln High v. East (Seacrest Field, Friday) — Using the Hastings game as a comparative, the Links should be a three-point favorite. The Spartans are hobbled by a host of injuries, but rate the nod.

Lincoln Southeast at Fremont — After an opening game loss, the Tigers are living up to their nickname. Scored 53 points the last time out. If Southeast wins this one, they're for real!

Northeast v. Pius X (Seacrest Field, Saturday night) — Don't ask how that decision was arrived at. This could be the best of the lot. Two hard-hitting clubs which love to block and tackle.

Creighton Prep at Bellevue — The top Metro game of the week. The No. 3 and 4 teams in the state. Bellevue itching to move up the ladder.

METS NEED 12 TO DROP CUBS, 6-5

...Christian's Double Leads Chisox

By Associated Press

The New York Mets won their 100th game Wednesday with a 6-5, 12th inning victory over the Chicago Cubs, whom the New Yorkers had earlier chased and then surpassed for the National League's East Division title.

In other NL games, San Diego clipped San Francisco, 9-4; Pittsburgh nipped Montreal, 5-4; and St. Louis dropped Philadelphia, 6-5.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox nipped Minnesota, the American League West Champs, 4-3, Baltimore, the East champ, needed 10 innings to dispose of Detroit, 2-1; Kansas City blanked California, 6-0, in a rain-shortened five-inning game; and New York edged Cleveland, 4-3.

Nate Colbert drove in five Padre runs with a triple and his 24th homer. Willie McCovey boosted his league RBI lead to 125 with a sixth inning sacrifice fly before 2,184 fans, the smallset turnout in the history of Candlestick Park.

The White Sox gained their first victory of the season at the Twins' Metropolitan Stadium after seven straight losses. With the score tied 2-2 in the fifth, Bob Christian knocked in two runs with a double. Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew socked a two-run homer in the first, his 49th, for the league's home run lead.

Art Shamsky's pinch hit single drove in the winning run and propelled the Mets to their 100th victory of the season.

It was the ninth consecutive victory for the Mets, who have clinched the National League's Eastern Division title.

Ernie Banks doubled in two Cub runs in the first, ending 42 innings of scoreless Met pitching. The Mets got one back in the second and moved in front 3-2 on Harrelson's two-run single in the fourth.

Bob Christian knocked in the tie-breaking runs with a double and reliever Wilbur Wood stopped a Minnesota Rally, giving the Chicago White Sox their victory over the Twins.

The White Sox had lost seven straight games in Minnesota.

Hot-hitting Ed Kirkpatrick singled home two runs in the third inning and Jerry Adair doubled in three more and scored in the fifth as the Kansas City Royals defeated California.

Rookie Bill Butler checked the Angels on three hits in bringing his season record to 9-10.

Mike Epstein's three-run homer in the first inning started Washington to its victory over Boston Wednesday night as Ted Williams' Senators finished 10 games over .500 in his first year as manager.

Epstein's 30th homer followed walks to Ed Brinkman and Ken McMullen. Boston's Carl Yastrzemski hit his 40th in the first inning off winner Joe Coleman, 12-13, who allowed only one other hit.

Frank Howard, hitting in the leadoff spot to give him as many times at bat as possible, failed to overtake Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew in the race for the American League homerun title. Howard, who has 48 homers to 49 for Killebrew, grounded out twice, struckout and walked.

Mark Belanger's bases loaded single in the 10th inning gave the play-off-bound Baltimore Orioles a season ending 2-1 victory over Detroit Wednesday night as Jim Palmer bested Mickey Lolich.

The victory was the 109th for the Orioles, who finished 19 games ahead of the second place Tigers.

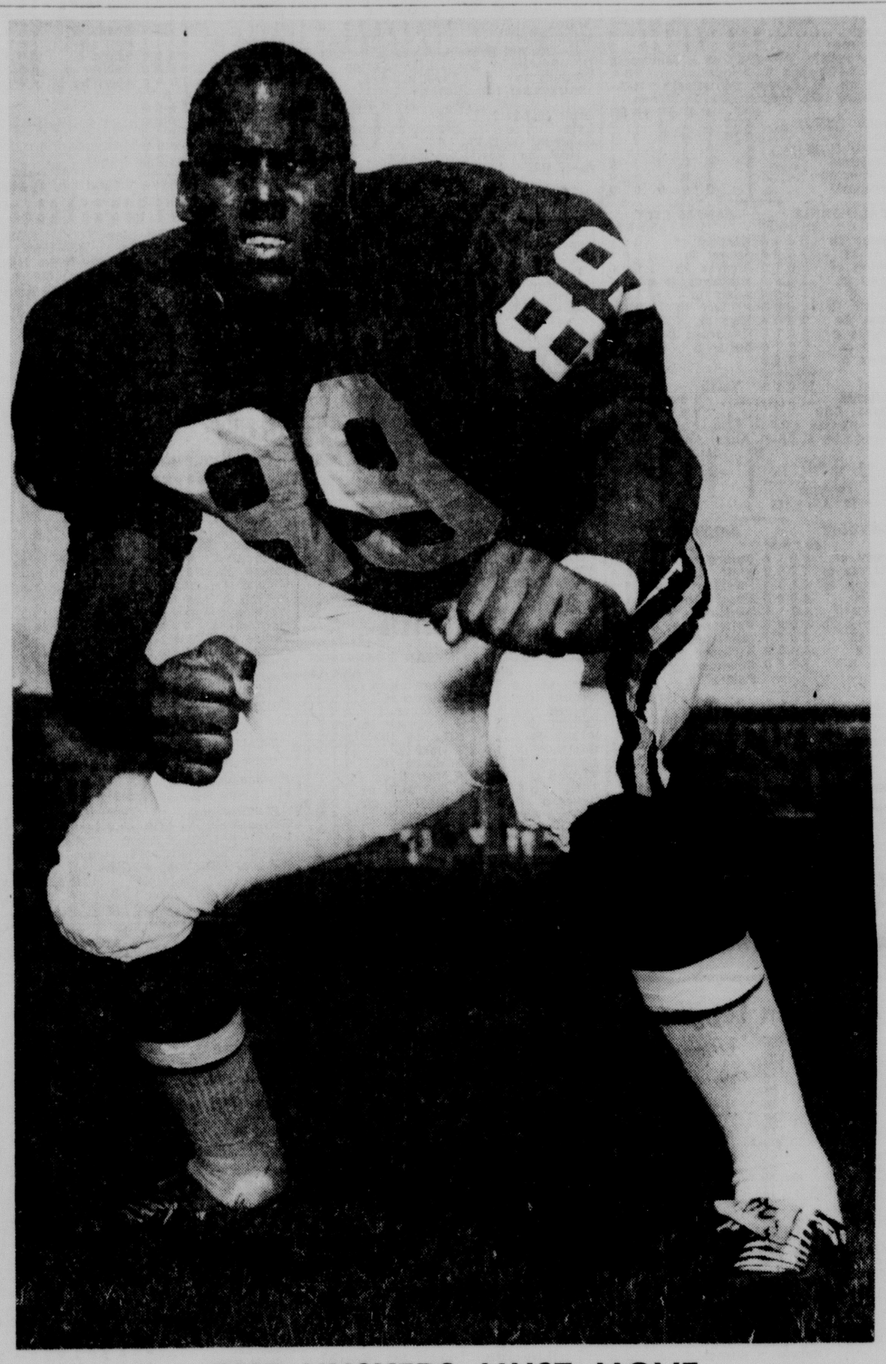
Rookie Ted Simmons followed a walk to Joe Torre with a two-out triple in the ninth inning and the St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Philadelphia Phillies.

The victory kept alive the hopes of the former National League pennant winners of tying for third place in the East Division.

Richie Allen, who doubled in an early run, singled in two more in the fifth to pull the Phillies even after Joe Hague had capped a five-run St. Louis second with a two-run homer.

Al Oliver singled in the winning run with none out in the ninth inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Montreal Expos.

Oliver's hit came after an infield hit by Roberto Clemente and Gary Sutherland's two-base throwing error on Willie Stargell's grounder.



ONE HUSKERS MUST MOVE

Defensive end Leon Trawick is one of the players Nebraska's offensive line must move to make the Huskers' running game go Saturday and must stop to give passers time to throw against Minnesota. The 6-4, 218-pound senior is from Washington, D.C.

—SPOKESMEN EXPRESS CONCERN—

Sports Costs Rising; Television To Help?

Hartford, Conn. (AP) — Spokesmen for America's three leading pro sports expressed serious concern Wednesday over spiralling costs in their operations and admitted concessions had been made to television to insure peak revenue from that source.

"The biggest problem in sports today is increased costs," said Pete Rozelle, the commissioner of pro football. "If the year by year escalation that we have been witnessing continues for a few more years it could become a serious problem."

That opinion was echoed by two of the other sport leaders at The Associated Press Managing Editors Convention — Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the National Basketball Association, and Lee MacPhail of the New York Yankees, representing baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"One of the biggest problems we have in baseball is the constantly rising costs in our operations," said MacPhail. "From the point of view of making money, particularly in cities whose teams fall out of the running, it's becoming a serious problem to break even."

"We too must look for ways of generating more income," said Kennedy. "And, in a broad sense, without considering pay TV or other similar sources of revenue, I think we've nearly reached the saturation point as far as income from television as we know it."

In emphasizing the problem, both Rozelle and MacPhail noted sharply increasing player payrolls, the pro football commissioner specifying a 25 to 30 per cent increase in payrolls since the merger of the American and National Football Leagues three years ago.

"It's just like it is throughout the whole country," said MacPhail, "Inflation is forcing things upward. We used to gear our operations to drawing 800,000 people and now we need 900,000 or 1,000,000 to break even."

The answer, in part, has been provided by television income. And even the fourth panel member, pro golf commissioner Joe Dey, agreed although his sport doesn't rely as heavily on income from that source.

"Television income is mostly supplemental for us since golf doesn't lend itself readily to television treatment," said Dey.

"But we have made one concession — in the event of a playoff, we have agreed to have it begin at the first televised hole, usually the 15th."

"As far as the game on the field," said MacPhail, "we don't allow anything to affect that. But we do adjust starting times to accommodate television. For example, in order to let television telecast both of the playoff games, we have starting times of 1 and 4 p.m."

"You have to make concessions in sports," said Rozelle. "The problem television creates for us is artificial time outs for commercials because we don't have any natural breaks in play like the inning situation in baseball.

"The fan too must make a concession to commercial time outs. While we are chided for them, we feel they are necessary, partly to fulfill our policy of bringing every road game back to the home team market via television."

Coach's Illness To Keep Him From Game

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Two key Nebraska defensive players were given the probable sign Wednesday for this weekend's trip to Minnesota, but the Huskers will be minus one coach when they take on the Gophers Saturday.

Assistant coach Clete Fischer, the only coach from the pre-Devaney era who is still on the staff of head coach Bob Devaney, remained at home Wednesday trying to recuperate from a kidney ailment that felled him last weekend.

"He won't be able to go with us this weekend," Devaney said, "And we don't know how long he'll be away from practices. We miss him because Clete is a fine coach and has done a good job for us with our kicking game and working with Carl Selmer this year with the offensive line."

Devaney said Fischer came to last week's Texas A & M game "when he probably shouldn't have and I don't think he's supposed to have many visitors."

With Fischer missing this week, Devaney and Tom Osborne have taken over the kick coaching chores and both also have been helping out with the offensive line work.

Defensive tackle Dave Walline and linebacker Jerry Murtaugh worked in pads Wednesday for the first time this week and Devaney said they probably would make the trip Friday.

"But," he added, "We probably won't decide on whether or not to start them until we work out up there Friday."

If they don't start, it would be sophomores Larry Jacobson at tackle and Pat Morell at linebacker.

Sophomore quarterback Jerry Tagge was still limping a bit Wednesday night, but Devaney said he looked better than he had Tuesday

"We're just going to have to wait until tomorrow (Thursday) probably before we decide whether to start Tagge or Van Brownson," he said. "Tagge's been throwing the ball better than Van, but Brownson moves better.

"However, we have no kick in general with our quarterbacks and we feel whichever one we use will do a good job."

Scot, Singaporean Capture World Cup Pro-Am Honors

Singapore (AP) — George Will of Scotland and host pro Phua Thin Kiay of Singapore carded a low 68 in the Pro-Am Wednesday in a prelude to the 17th annual World Cup and International Trophy tournament. The four-day event opens today over the par-71 Bukit course.

The United States got off to an inauspicious start with U.S. Open champion Orville Moody turning in a six-over-par 77.

Moody's partner, Lee Trevino, tallied a one-under 69, tying Hsieh Yung Yo of Taiwan and Alfonso Bohorquez of Colombia.

Will dropped his only stroke of the round on the 207-yard par 3 second. His tee shot landed on the back of the greens. He chipped on and missed a five-foot putt for a bogey four. He made up the loss with birdies on the fourth, seventh, 15th and 18th holes.

Phua, a 22-year-old Singaporean who turned pro just two months ago, had the obvious advantage of playing on his home course. Under the rules of the Pro-Am match, Phua played the back nine first and returned a superb four under par 32 with birdies on the 11th, 15th, 16th and 18th.

When he moved to the front nine he was six under with four holes left when he cracked and dropped a stroke each on the sixth, seventh and eighth.

Ninety players from 45 teams tee off Thursday morning in pursuit of the gold-plated World Cup.

Moody attributed at least part of his poor performance to a combination of hard surfaced greens and using the smaller British style ball.

He said he and Trevino planned to switch to the slightly larger American ball on opening day.

"The greens seem to be taking quite a toll from the small ball," Moody said.

Ex-Giant Star Thompson Dies Of Heart Attack At 43

Fresno, Calif. (AP) — Hank Thompson, star third baseman of Leo Durocher's miracle New York Giants of 1951 and world champions of 1954, died Tuesday night in a hospital here after suffering a heart seizure at home.

Thompson, 43, had been working for the Fresno Parks and Recreation Department as a playground director.

Thompson suffered the seizure Monday night and was rushed to Fresno Veterans Administration Hospital where he never regained consciousness.

His wife, Betty, a native of Fresno and his mother, Iona Thompson, also of Fresno were at his bedside.

Thompson, a left-handed hitter, began his baseball career with the Kansas City Monarchs of the American Negro League, was purchased by the Giants and played for their Jersey City farm team before moving to the parent team in 1949.

Thompson, an acrobatic fielder, set a major league record for participating in the most double plays as as third baseman in one season, 43 in 1950.

He hit .364 in the 1954 World Series.

He hit 129 major league home runs and enjoyed his best season in 1953 with a .302 average.

He was sent down to the Minneapolis team in the American Association in 1957 and quit baseball later that year at the age of 31.

Thompson was sentenced to a 10 year prison term for armed robbery in 1963 but was paroled before serving the entire term.

Denver Hockey Star Signs With Knights

Omaha — Tom Miller, a 6-0, 191-pound all-American last year with NCAA hockey champions Denver University, signed to play with the Omaha Knights of the CHL.

Miller, a center, scored 13 goals and had 33 assists for Denver last season.

U.S. Grand Prix Field Has Lot Of Champions

Watkins Glen, N.Y. (AP) — Jackie Stewart of Scotland, his first world driving title already stacked under his kilt, heads a crack entry list for Sunday's U.S. Grand Prix, richest road racing event in history.

Stewart, whose six Formula 1 victories this year already assure him the title, and some drivers will shoot for $206,000 in prize money, with $50,000 going to the winner.

It is the second biggest purse ever posted for a U.S. Auto Race, the Indianapolis 500 being the largest. And Mario Andretti, who won the 1969 Indy event and with it the U.S. driving title, is among those who will help cut the melon.

In addition to Stewart, three former world titleholders and the two men who have made a shambles of North America's top road racing series, the Canadian-American Challenge Cup, also are in the field.

The 108 lap, 248-mile classic will be run over the tightly-wound Watkins Glen Grand Prix circuit that rambles 2.3 miles through the hills and vales north of here.

More than 100,000 watched last year's race and if the weather is good that crowd figure could be surpassed.

Stewart, who hopes to equal the late Jimmy Clark's record of seven Grand Prix victories in one season, will be at the wheel of a British Matra-Ford, part of a three car team entered by Matra International. Other Matra drivers include Jean-Pierre Beltoise of France and Johnny Servoz-Gavin of Switzerland.

Andretti will drive one of three team Lotus entries from Colin Chapman's stable. His teammates will be Graham Hill, two-time Formula 1 champion, and Jochen Rindt of Austria who has grabbed the pole position in five of the nine Grand Prix runs this season.

Australian Jack Brabham, at 46 the oldest active Grand Prix driver, and Jackie Ickx of Belgium, at 24 the youngest charger on the circuit, will field a pair of Brabhams. Ickx won the Canadian Grand Prix Sept. 24, with Brabham taking second.

New Zealanders Bruce McLaren and Dennis Hulme, who together have already locked up the 1969 Can-Am championship, will handle the team McLaren entries, while ex-world champ John Surtees and Jackie Oliver, both of Britain, will field two BRMs.

Stewart won the U.S. Grand Prix here last year, leading Hill across the finish line. Hill, however, went on to win the 1968 Formula 1 title, with the Scot placing second.

Huskers 1-2 In Big 8 Receiving

Nebraska's Larry Frost and Jim McFarland rank 1-2 in the Big Eight pass receiving with eight and seven catches, respectively.

Frost's eight grabs have been for 81 yards while McFarland's seven have covered 117 yards, making him the only Big Eight receiver with more than 100 yards. And he did it in just one game.

Adderly Saves Packers

New York (AP) — Dave Hampton, Jim Grabowski and Bart Starr stole the headlines but it was old dependable Herb Adderley who saved the day Sunday for the Green Bay Packers.

Adderley, 30, playing his ninth year of pro ball, was named The Associated Press' Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League Wednesday for his key interception in the final seconds.

Green Bay led 14-7 but the San Francisco 49ers were on the march. The 49ers had moved the ball from their own 27 to the Packers' seven. It was first down and seven when John Brodie fired a pass that Adderley, the Green Bay right corner back, intercepted on the goal line with just 17 seconds to play.

Adderley is one of the reasons the Packers remain unbeaten in the NFL going into Sunday's big game with Minnesota. While beating the Chicago Bears and 49ers, Green Bay has allowed a total of seven points, lowest in the league.

Larry Stallings, the St. Louis Cards' left linebacker, broke into the news with a most unusual play against the Chicago Bears. The scoring summary that reads "Stallings, 62, run fumble return," doesn't begin to tell the story.

It seems the Bears had decided to go on a quick count from quarterback Jack Concannon. The ball was to be snapped on the first voice.

Gale Sayers didn't get the whole play in the huddle and hollered to Concannon to wait. When Jack held up his hand to make the form of a T and started to say "Time out", center Mike Pyle snapped the ball.

The ball bounced off Concannon and was recovered by the alert Stallings, who was on a blitz, and the rest was easy. Most of the Bears thought time had been called.

However, the referee, Tommy Bell, ruled the ball had been snapped before a time out was called and the touchdown was allowed.

Gophers Stress Running In Drill

Minneapolis (AP) — The Minnesota Gophers stressed the running game Wednesday in a thorough practice for Saturday's intersectional football game against the Nebraska Cornhuskers in Minneapolis.

The Gophers are pointing to perfecting their rushing attack, which will butt heads with a veteran Nebraska defense.

Minnesota's offense worked on polishing running plays while the defense worked at stopping simulated Nebraska rushing plays run by the freshmen.

Meanwhile it was announced sophomore linebacker Tom Chandler, a reserve, probably will not play because of a sprained ankle sustained in a 35-35 tie with Ohio last week. Jeff Wright, defensive halfback, tested his injured ankle and said it felt "pretty good."

If Wright, the team's leading tackler as a sophomore last season, is not ready by Saturday sophomore Gary Hohman will start.

—OFFENSIVE LINE IMPROVED—

Rodgers Pleased With Kansas Drill

By Associated Press

Coach Pepper Rodgers was happy after Kansas' football workout Wednesday.

"Our offensive line is improving," Rodgers said. "Tailback Ron Jessie continues to improve and I think the switch of Mike Reeves to fullback and Rich Rucker to tailback is a good one."

He was cautiously optimistic about the game at New Mexico Saturday night. "I doubt that we'll score a lot. In fact, I would be most happy with a one point win," he said.

Rodgers said the Jayhawks would not practice at night this week, pointing out that they had lost both times they prepared that way.

"But the main reason our luck may change at night," Rodgers joked, "is that we aren't playing Penn State or Texas Tech."

Iowa State

Linebacker Keith Schroeder's showing in the Brigham Young game was so good, Iowa State coach Johnny Majors plans to start him against Illinois Saturday.

Majors announced Wednesday Schroeder, who had been sharing the job on defense with Steve Powers, would start against the Illini.

The Iowa State coach said he was pleased with Wednesday's practice, which included work on down and distance situations with very little contact work involved. The Cyclones also spent some time concentrating on goal line offense.

Senior Golfers Maintain Lead

St. Andrews, Scotland (AP) — The United States produced a three-man aggregate of 230 and held a five-stroke lead over Britain and Ireland after the first round of the World Senior Amateur Golf Championships at St. Andrews Wednesday.

Thirteen teams of four players each are competing, but only three of the four scores in each team count towards the overall score.

David Goldman, 60, of Dallas, Tex., who was runnerup in the U.S. seniors two weeks ago, had a round of 75.

Iowa State Defenders In Top Ten

New York — Iowa State ranks in the top ten nationally in both pass defense and total defense, NCAA statistics revealed Wednesday.

The Cyclones are 10th in total defense, allowing only 189 yards per game and seventh in pass defense, giving up just 66 yards per outing.

Kansas State is eighth in total defense, allowing 183.5 yards per contest while Oklahoma is third in pass defense with a per game allowance of 55.5 yards.

K-State is third in rushing defense, permitting only 4.5 yards per game.

Oklahoma is fourth at 342 yards and Missouri seventh at 313.5 yards per game in rushing offense while K-State ranks seventh with 45 points and Oklahoma is ninth with 42.5 points per game in scoring.

Pheasant Outlook Appears Bright

A late hatch of pheasants has improved Nebraska's hunting picture, Game Commission director Mel Steen said Wednesday.

It appears there will be "a better supply of birds than we had expected originally in most of the state," Steen said.

The pheasant season begins Nov. 1 in Nebraska, except for the southeast corner of the state, where the season starts Nov. 8.

Steen said good weather was all that would be needed to provide a good hunting season in Nebraska.

Turkey and deer hunters have found good supply and grouse hunters have been pleased because the "hunting pressure has been quite light," Steen said.

Franco In 34th Year

Madrid (UPI) — Gen. Francisco Franco marked the 33rd anniversary of his accession to power with a reception for leading Spaniards and diplomats.

Enrollment Up

Chadron — Chadron State College set a new enrollment record this fall with 2,332 students.

Democrats Get Mahoney Back; May Seek Office

Omaha (UPI) — State Sen. Eugene T. Mahoney became a Democrat Wednesday by changing his voter registration here.

The move was viewed as a prelude to Mahoney's announcing he will run for the Douglas County Board on the Democratic ticket next year.

It won't be too much of a change for Mahoney. He was a Democrat until 1956 when he registered as a Republican and worked in the campaign if Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb.

UNO Princess Candidates Told

Omaha (UPI) — Four seniors and two juniors at the University of Nebraska at Omaha are candidates for the 1969 homecoming princess title, to be announced Oct. 9.

They are Linda Backora, Judith Benson, Marcella Connelly, Suzanne Giller, Terese Kathleen Hudgins, and Colleen Marie Looney.

McGovern Outlines Priorities

Hartford, Conn. (AP) — An offer of asylum to South Vietnamese who have "put their necks out" during the Vietnam war was advocated by Sen. George S. McGovern Wednesday as one step to be taken in U.S. withdrawal from that conflict.

The South Dakota Democrat said an end to the American participation in the "essentially internal struggle" in Vietnam is the first priority of the nation.

He told the annual convention of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association that the second priority is to "bring under control the massive military spending that has so distorted our national budget," and he said the third priority is lifting the quality of life for all U.S. citizens.

He disagreed with the view of some officials that millions of Vietnamese would seek asylum outside of Vietnam.

Motorcycle Taken

A motorcycle valued at $300 has been reported stolen from a Lincoln home, according to police.

The trail bike was taken from a garage at the home of Robert G. Walters of 5300 Randolph.

Neighbor Bugged Out Of 'Curiosity'

Redwood City, Calif. (UPI) — Jerome R. Cantou said he was just "curious" but after listening to the testimony of his neighbors, Superior Court Judge J. A. Branson sentenced Cantou to 10 days in jail and urged him to seek "psychiatric help."

The neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Williams said when they moved out of their apartment in nearby Burlingame July 31 they found a microphone under their bedroom rug with wires leading to Cantou's garage. Cantou said "the FBI had questioned my wife about the Williams family" but the FBI denied this.

Military Men Granted Limited Participation

Washington (UPI) — The Defense Department ruled Wednesday that members of the armed forces can display political stickers and join political clubs but can't serve as club officers or march in political parades.

The regulations were in a lengthy directive signed by Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard, spelling out in detail the extent members of the Army, Navy and Air Force can take part in politics.

THE MINI GIANT
FANTASTIC NEW PRODUCT
Super Portable Equipment

The MINI GIANT is now being formally introduced in this area for the first time. Pilot marketing research has already been made on the MINI GIANT and the results of the consumer response has been tremendous. Programs have now been scheduled for the MINI GIANT to be advertised and placed on the market nation wide. The MINI GIANT has opened up a vast market in the agriculture, homeowner and industrial areas. The weight of only 22 pounds, versatility and portability with the two cycle engine makes the MINI GIANT so unique that there is no other comparable competitive product of its kind on the market today. The MINI GIANT can do a variety of jobs with the various attachments and chemicals available with the unit. A few of the many tasks the MINI GIANT can perform are: high pressure washing with up to 400 pounds of pressure for washing cars, trucks, tractors, storm windows and screens without removing the screens; melting of snow and ice; revitalizing & keeping your lawn green the year around; exterminating your home; transferring of water by means of a sump pump; custom spraying for cattle, orchards, shrubs, trees and insects of all kinds. New attachments are now being built to supply a source of electric power wherever it is needed and attachments for spray painting. Bring a couple of friends or neighbors and form your own dealership. Financing is also available. An investment less than $10/mo. has the potential of returning to you $4195.92 or more in 1 yr. even on a parttime basis. A factory representative will hold group meetings to present full information on the dealership program at the Holiday Inn Motel, Omaha, Nebr. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 6, 7, & 8 at 7:30 p.m. each evening. Also meetings will be held Thursday & Friday, Oct. 9 & 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Congress Inn Motel, Lincoln, Nebr. If you cannot attend the group meeting, full information on the dealership program will be sent to you by writing Citation Mfg. Co. Inc., P.O. Box 550, Silcom Springs, Arkansas, 72761. 30

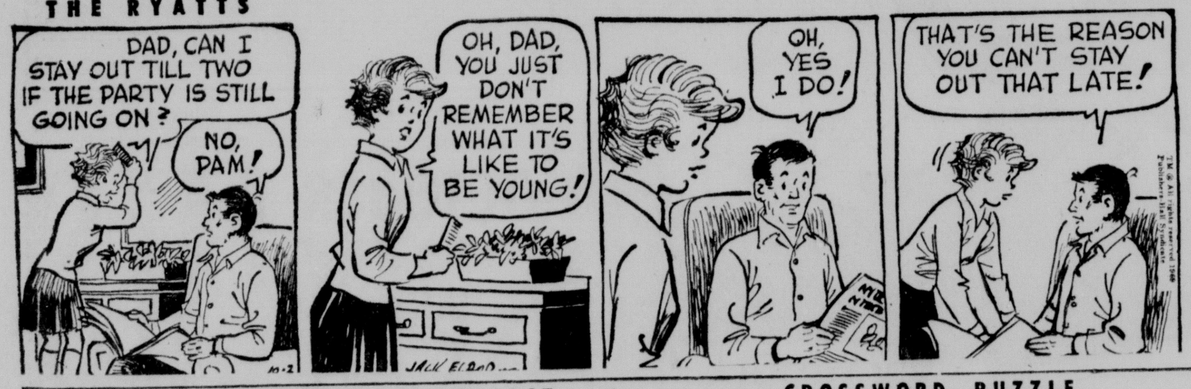
THE RYATTS



DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

The Saturn 5 rockets are assembled in New Orleans in what was a World War II tank factory.

Trout grow large in New York State. These are the largest ever authenticated for rod and real angling in the state: brook trout—8 lbs. 18 oz.; brown trout—21 lbs. 5 oz.; rainbow trout—21 lbs.; lake trout—31 lbs.

☆ ☆ ☆

Nearly half of the wild turkeys in the United States are found in Texas.

Travel on Texas highways in 1968 totaled 59 billion miles, the equivalent of 128,000 round trips to the moon.

☆ ☆ ☆

Safety experts say bad tires are the cause of more than half the highway accidents in America.

The first piece of moon studied in detail was identified as "an igneous rock peppered with glass-lined pits."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
